Recommendations and Reports Administrative Conference of the United States, Legislative Recommendations for Reauthorization of the Higher Education Act and Related Measures, 1991

Universal screening of young children for developmental disorders Ina Wallace, 2018-02-18 In the past decade American and Canadian pediatric societies have recommended that pediatric care clinicians follow a schedule of routine surveillance and screening for young children to detect conditions such as developmental delay speech and language delays and disorders and autism spectrum disorder The goal of these recommendations is to ensure that children with these developmental issues receive appropriate referrals for evaluation and intervention However in 2015 and 2016 the US Preventive Services Task Force

USPSTF and the Canadian Task Force on Preventive Health Care issued recommendations that did not support universal screening for these conditions This occasional paper is designed to help make sense of the discrepancy between Task Force recommendations and those of the pediatric community in light of research and practice To clarify the issues this paper reviews the distinction between screening and surveillance the benefits of screening and early identification how the USPSTF makes its recommendations and what the implications of not supporting screening are for research clinical practice and families

Handbook of Response to Intervention and Multi-Tiered Systems of Support Paige C. Pullen, Michael J. Kennedy, 2018-10-04 Of the many issues facing special education and general education today it is difficult to imagine one more important or timely than response to intervention RTI Almost overnight RTI has become standard practice across the nation Unfortunately RTI remains ill defined falls far short of its evidence based practice goal is almost invariably misused and often results in more harm than good Nevertheless as a conceptual framework RTI has great potential for ensuring that students with disabilities receive appropriate evidence based instruction The mission of this handbook is to present a comprehensive and integrated discussion of response to intervention RTI and its relation to multi tiered systems of support MTSS in both special education and general education Although the two terms are currently used interchangeably distinct differences exist between them Therefore chapters are dedicated to distinguishing the two concepts RTI and MTSS and describing each one s unique role in both general and special education In addition the authors recommend a third term Multi Tiered Instruction to differentiate the practices related to the purpose of the specific intervention
