

High School Graduation Speech June 6, 2008

J. André de Barros Teixeira
Chairman of the Board of Trustees
International School of Brussels

Ladies and gentlemen of the Class of 2008,

In this moment of pride for yourselves, your friends, your parents, your beloved ones, I bring to you a message of humility.

In a time of disintegration, of broken down values, of fragmented principles, I dare to call your attention to the holistic beauty of this moment.

It was only twelve years ago when you crossed the gates of this or another school, fearing the forsaken solitude of the interminable hours between that grudgingly uttered good bye and the sight of your mum or dad at the patio again at the end of the day.

It was probably just seven years ago when home work began to build up as a chore to be performed on a daily and grinding basis.

Three years have passed since you felt that the peak of achievement waited for you in the High School classrooms.

And here you are today, wondering what next.

There is pride in your eyes, there is hope in your hearts and there are plans for glory in your minds.

Pride, hope and glory are well deserved, and you must savor the moment, as the diver who jumps from the highest cliff.

However, neither pride or hope or glory is a good strategy. Being humble, focused and not seeking the credit will do a lot more to move you to the next level. The thrill of the jump and the coolness of the water are simple preludes to climbing the whole cliff back again, reaching the new peak with sweat and tears.

In a world of interminable wars, of terrorism-laden territories, of famine amidst incomparable wealth, you have been privileged to be exposed to the greatest of all diversities: That of cultures, habits, languages, attitudes and patterns of behavior. Very few schools in the world can boast the enormous diversity of nationalities to be found at ISB. Moreover, you are now a strong generation of multinational, and dare I say, transnational individuals, whose ability to cope with and celebrate diversity is second to none.

Tolerance and understanding are the most effective antidote to prejudice. Like a parachute, your mind functions better because it is open. Like an iPod, you carry in your heads a baggage of sounds and images that will shape the choices you will be making in the very near future.

However, nothing will replace your focus on your principles, your values, the ethical and moral ground where all great ideas flourish. Nothing will take away the need to look after your family, your friends, your health. Nothing will replace your need to be fair and just, understanding and courageous in the face of adversity.

Literacy Projects for Student-Centered Classrooms Karrell Hickman, 2007-04-18 Meets NCTE and IRA standards offers guidelines for using the student centered approach to literacy instruction and presents four long term research projects that encourage teamwork and creativity ENGLISH FOR INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS Jarum, Risky Lestiono, Dwi Wahyuningtyas, Arief Moertopo, Rizka Maulina Wulandari, Lazuar Azmi Zulferdi, 2016-05-28 English for International Relations is written to fulfill students needs to learn English for Specific Purposes This book is designed to provide an opportunity to develop students English skills more communicatively and meaningfully in academic context It consists of twenty eight units Each unit presents reading writing and speaking sections Reading section mainly consists of pre reading reading comprehension and vocabulary exercises related to the topic of the text However some reading sections have additional authentic texts and their exercises In writing section some structures and sentence patterns are presented from the easiest to the most difficult exercises Meanwhile in speaking section students are provided with models and examples followed by practical activities presented in various ways The materials have been arranged and graded in accordance with students language levels Past Minnesota Bar Examinations and Sample Answers, 1995 Fourth Comings Megan McCafferty, 2025-09-23 The fourth book in the beloved New York Times bestselling series now with a new foreword by Rebecca Serle Jessica Darling is living the New York City dream She s subletting an apartment with her best friend working for a magazine that cares about her psychology degree and she s still deeply in love with Marcus Flutie But then Marcus proposes and wants Jessica s answer in a week Is she ready to give up her NYC life of literary parties art openings and karaoke downtown to move back to New Jersey Even if it s to be with the boy now man who she s been in love with for years Megan McCafferty s Fourth Comings the next in the hilarious New York Times bestselling series brings readers once again into the snarky witty mind of Jessica Darling as she learns that reality is more complicated than dreamy clich s High School Journalism Homer L. Hall, Logan H. Aimone, 2008-08-15 Includes a brief history of American journalism and discusses the duties of a journalist styles of writing the parts of a newspaper newspaper and yearbook design photography and careers in journalism Race to the Bottom LaFleur Stephens-Dougan, 2020-07-31 African American voters are a key demographic to the modern Democratic base and conventional wisdom has it that there is political cost to racialized dog whistles especially for Democratic candidates However politicians from both parties and from all racial backgrounds continually appeal to negative racial attitudes for political gain Challenging what we think we know about race and politics LaFleur Stephens Dougan argues that candidates across the racial and political spectrum engage in racial distancing or using negative racial appeals to communicate to racially moderate and conservative whites the overwhelming majority of whites that they will not disrupt the racial status quo Race to the Bottom closely examines empirical data on racialized partisan stereotypes to show that engaging in racial distancing through political platforms that do not address the needs of nonwhite communities and charged rhetoric that targets African Americans immigrants and others can be politically advantageous. Racialized communication persists as a well worn campaign strategy because it has real electoral value for both white and black politicians seeking to broaden their coalitions. Stephens Dougan reveals that claims of racial progress have been overstated as our politicians are incentivized to employ racial prejudices at the expense of the most marginalized in our society. Resources in Education, 2000-04. Work and Education in America Antje Barabasch, Felix Rauner, 2011-09-24. This is the first comprehensive academic volume on vocational education and training VET or career and technical education in the United States. It features insights into a variety of issues in this field of research. The international reader will find an up to date synthesis as well as a critical analysis of the relevant history, philosophy, governance, legislation, and organizational structures. The coverage is structured according to the benchmarks applied to as well as the theoretical discussions around VET. The topics covered all have a strong contemporary relevance and include education versus qualification, the American community college, the issue of localization versus globalization in governance, vocationalism in higher education, career guidance and career counselling, and apprenticeships in the U.S. This book supports the assertion of the relevance of career and technical education both for the individual and the labour market. Scholars, policy makers, and practitioners interested in issues of vocational education and training, technical education, and career education will find this collection of critical and reflective discussions very useful in any analysis of the features of VET approaches taken in America. Qualitative Data Analysis Matthew B. Miles, A. Michael Huberman, Johnny Saldana, 2014. Miles and Huberman's original research studies are profiled and accompanied with new examples from Saldana's recent qualitative work. The Sympathetic State Michele Landis Dauber, 2013. Drawing on a variety of materials including newspapers, legal briefs, political speeches, the art and literature of the time, and letters from thousands of ordinary Americans, Dauber shows that while this long history of government disaster relief has faded from our memory, today it was extremely well known to advocates for an expanded role for the national government in the 1930s, including the Social Security Act. Making this connection required framing the Great Depression as a disaster afflicting citizens through no fault of their own. Dauber argues that the disaster paradigm, though successful in defending the New Deal, would ultimately come back to haunt advocates for social welfare. By not making a more radical case for relief, proponents of the New Deal helped create the weak, uniquely American welfare state we have today, one torn between the desire to come to the aid of those suffering and the deeply rooted suspicion that those in need are responsible for their own deprivation.
