1960-Stahl House

Case Study House No. 22

1961-1962, Los Angeles, California

The Stahl House and its surrounding setting, which featured the second structure of the Stahl House, characterized the new house which Henry built for himself and C. H. Stahl. Built in 1961, designed by John Lautner as Case Study House No. 22, it became the most famous house of the progressive and was later added to the Museum of Contemporary Art's Temporary Contemporary building in Los Angeles as part of the 1971 exhibit "Museum for Modern Living: History and Legacy of the Case Study House Program". Thus it was the only Case Study House to be built twice.

Henry described the position of the house, high above Sunset Boulevard, as being "on an eagle's nest, site in the mountainside". Lautner and Stahl built their own site and used it while staying in an apartment on an opposite hillside. The house was designed to be there and the purchase was completed in 1961 and a half hour. Stahl built, as Henry described, he had some idea of how he wanted the house to be. "The house seemed a clear and undisturbed site of 1961 design and this is the only one we could do it. It's not a site. It's all glass," he explained. "All the way around, except for the house which is solid. . . . The house side is all glass for sun design. It has got a magnificent view. It's a natural statement. The site is important. The house is important to it to add the environment and what is it. You don't see the house when you're in it, you see the view and you're living with the environment, the outside. . . . That's how Case Study House No. 22 was designed and why it was designed."
