Gambescia, Evelyn Gonzalez, 2010-02-23 When health and human services organizations new established or mature engage in a strategic planning process invariably the suggestion is made to offer a public speaker bureau to support their mission As a professional in the health and human services field you probably have encountered to some degree the services provided by an organization s speakers bureau You have heard speakers representing organizations or you may have been a staff or volunteer speaker for an organization Public speaker bureaus are ubiquitous Providing a public speaker bureau usually makes sense It provides an easy and relatively inexpensive way to impart useful information to your constituents or the public or serve as a marketing or fundraising tool A public speaker bureau can increase your visibility in the communities that you serve or would like to serve Throughout our score of years of experience in the health and human services fields we were struck by the lack of attention given to most organizations public speaker bureaus Again while most organizations felt the need to have a speakers bureau relatively little attention was given to the management and evaluation of this service In fact few organizations spent quality time determining whether or not a public speaker bureau was indeed needed and if so what should be its strategic purpose in serving the mission of the organization
