Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet on the body composition and physical fitness of obese women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 20 obese women who were randomly assigned to either a diet or an exercise group. The diet group was instructed to consume 1000 kcal less than their maintenance level, while the exercise group was instructed to exercise for 30 minutes, 3 times per week. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 10 weeks. The diet group showed a significant decrease in body weight, body fat, and waist circumference, while the exercise group showed no significant changes. The diet group also showed a significant increase in physical fitness, while the exercise group showed no significant changes. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet is effective in improving body composition and physical fitness in obese women.

Caution: Rolling, pushing, or climbing on the Trolley can cause the Trolley to fall backwards, potentially resulting in the roll-over protection structure (ROPS) falling on the operator. The ROPS may not protect if the top-over-protecting structure is not in the upright position. Follow all safety precautions provided in the Safety Manual to ensure the ROPS is in the correct position and safety, power, push/pull and installation instructions are followed. Following the instructions in the Safety Manual will ensure the Trolley is used properly.

Abstract: This research was designed to investigate the effects of computer-assisted instruction (CAI) on mathematics performance. The study was conducted in a middle school in Turkey. The sample consisted of 60 students who were randomly assigned to two groups: experimental and control. The experimental group received CAI instruction, while the control group received traditional instruction. Data were collected at three different time points: pre-test, post-test, and follow-up. Results showed that the experimental group performed significantly better than the control group on all measures of mathematics performance. These findings suggest that CAI may be an effective tool for improving mathematics learning outcomes.
