

Physical Sciences 101 - Kinematics Weighting

Proposed:

We want your input on the principle that we propose to use as a basis for weighting the exam.

Background:

Physics 101 covers
 Kinematics
 Newton's laws
 Momentum
 Energy
 Rotational motion
 Relativity

Assessment:

1. Physics 101 covers three areas:

• Kinematics
 • Newton's laws
 • Energy

• Rotational motion

We will provide you with all the information you need to make a decision on the weighting of the exam.

2. Kinematics covers the study of motion. It includes the study of displacement, velocity, acceleration, and time. It also includes the study of the motion of objects in two and three dimensions. Kinematics is the study of the motion of objects without regard to the forces that cause the motion.

3. Newton's laws cover the study of the forces that cause motion. They include the study of the forces that cause an object to accelerate, the forces that cause an object to move in a circle, and the forces that cause an object to move in a straight line.

4. Energy covers the study of the energy that is transferred from one object to another. It includes the study of the energy that is transferred from one object to another by work, heat, and radiation.

5. Rotational motion covers the study of the motion of objects that rotate. It includes the study of the angular displacement, angular velocity, angular acceleration, and angular momentum. It also includes the study of the forces that cause an object to rotate.

6. Relativity covers the study of the effects of motion on the laws of physics. It includes the study of the effects of motion on time, space, and mass. It also includes the study of the effects of motion on the laws of electromagnetism and quantum mechanics.
