Parliament. House of Commons,1907 Scientists in the Classroom J. Rudolph,2002-05-02 During the 1950s leading American scientists embarked on an unprecedented project to remake high school science education Dissatisfaction with the soft school curriculum of the time advocated by the professional education establishment and concern over the growing technological sophistication of the Soviet Union led government officials to encourage a handful of elite research scientists fresh from their World War II successes to revitalize the nations science curricula In Scientists in the Classroom John L Rudolph argues that the Cold War environment long neglected in the history of education literature is crucial to understanding both the reasons for the public acceptance of scientific authority in the field of education and the nature of the curriculum materials that were eventually produced Drawing on a wealth of previously untapped resources from government and university archives Rudolph focuses on the National Science Foundation supported curriculum projects initiated in 1956 What the historical record reveals according to Rudolph is that these materials were designed not just to improve American science education but to advance the professional interest of the American scientific community in the postwar period as well

Partners in Science Robert E. Kohler,2020-02-22 Robert Kohler shows exactly how entrepreneurial academic scientists became intimate partners in science with the officers of the large foundations created by John D Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie and in so doing tells a fascinating story of how the modern system of grant getting and grant giving evolved and how this funding process has changed the way laboratory scientists make their careers and do their work This book is a rich historical tapestry of people institutions and scientific ideas It will stand for a long time as a source of precise and detailed information about an important aspect of the scientific enterprise It also contains many valuable lessons for the coming years John Ziman Times Higher Education Supplement Nanotechnologies and Food Great Britain.
