Remote Sensing of Night-time Light Christopher Elvidge, Xi Li, Yuyu Zhou, Changyong Cao, Timothy A. Warner, 2021-08-09. Satellite images acquired at night provide a visually arresting perspective of the Earth and the human activities that light up the otherwise mostly dark Earth. These night time light satellite images can be compiled into a geospatial time series that represent an invaluable source of information for both the natural and social sciences. Night time light remote sensing has been shown to be particularly useful for a range of natural science and social science applications including studies relating to urban development, demography, sociology, fishing activity, light pollution and the consequences of civil war. Key sensors for these time series include the Defense Meteorological Satellite Program's Operational Linescan System (DMSP OLS) and the Suomi National Polar-orbiting Partnership Satellite's Visible Infrared Imaging Radiometer Suite (Day/Night Band). Suomi NPP VIIRS DNB. An increasing number of alternative sources are also available including high spatial resolution and multispectral sensors. This book captures key methodological issues associated with pre-processing night time light data, documents state-of-the-art analysis methods and explores a wide range of applications. Major sections focus on NPP VIIRS DNB processing, inter-calibration between NPP VIIRS and DMSP OLS, applications associated with socio-economic activities, applications in monitoring urbanization and fishing activity monitoring. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Remote Sensing.

Remote Sensing of Environmental Changes in Cold Regions Jinyang Du, Jennifer D. Watts, Hui Lu, Lingmei Jiang, Paolo Tarolli, 2019-11-14. This Special Issue gathers papers reporting recent advances in the remote sensing of cold regions. It includes contributions presenting improvements in modeling microwave emissions from snow, assessment of satellite-based sea ice concentration products, satellite monitoring of ice jam and glacier lake outburst floods, satellite mapping of snow depth and soil freeze/thaw states near nadir, interferometric imaging of surface water bodies and remote sensing based assessment of high arctic lake environment and vegetation recovery from wildfire disturbances in Alaska. A comprehensive review is presented to summarize the achievements, challenges and opportunities of cold land remote sensing.

Remote Sensing of Hydrometeorological Hazards George P. Petropoulos, Tanvir Islam, 2017-11-02. Extreme weather and climate change aggravate the frequency and magnitude of disasters. Facing atypical and more severe events, existing early warning and response systems become inadequate both in scale and scope. Earth Observation (EO) provides today information at global, regional and even basin scales related to agrometeorological hazards. This book focuses on drought, flood, frost, landslides and storms, cyclones and covers different applications of EO data used from prediction to mapping damages as well as recovery for each category. It explains the added value of EO technology in comparison with conventional techniques applied today through many case studies.

Urban Landscape Ecology Robert A. Francis, James D.A. Millington, Michael A. Chadwick, 2016-04-14. The growth of cities poses ever increasing challenges for the natural environment on which they impact and depend not only within their boundaries but also in surrounding peri-urban areas. Landscape ecology, the study of interactions across space and time between the structure and function of physical, biological and cultural components of landscapes, has a pivotal role to play in identifying sustainable solutions. This book brings together examples of research at the cutting edge of urban landscape ecology across multiple contexts that investigate the state maintenance and restoration of healthy and functional natural environments across urban and peri urban landscapes An explicit focus is on urban landscapes in contrast to other books which have considered urban ecosystems and ecology without specific focus on spatial connections It integrates research and perspectives from across academia public and private practitioners of urban conservation planning and design It provides a much needed summary of current thinking on how urban landscapes can provide the foundation of sustained economic growth prospering communities and personal well being
