The Fast and The Furious: Drivers, Speed Cameras and Control in a Risk Society Helen Wells, 2022-03-26 The Fast and The Furious Drivers Speed Cameras and Control in a Risk Society presents a sociological and criminological perspective critical to understanding the driver s role at the centre of road safety interventions Such an approach is it is argued as crucial to an understanding of attempts to reduce road crashes deaths and injuries as approaching such questions from an engineering or educational perspective The book offers an explanation for the continued debate about one road safety intervention the speed camera by situating that debate within contemporary literature about the risk society Beck 1992 and more broadly understood experiences of risk faced on a daily basis by drivers Rather than a focus on risk as something that can be objectively assessed measured and managed separately from the social context in which it is encountered it suggests that risk is something that permeates this particular debate from every angle The book achieves its aims by utilising sociological and criminological perspectives to investigate issues such as the social context in which it is possible for drivers to reject official scientific expertise about crash causation and camera effectiveness the self defined respectability of the population being problematised and its juxtaposition with a proper police focus on real criminals the reconceptualisation of law breaking as risk taking rather than inherently wrong behaviour and its consequences for the enforcement of laws based on risk assessment the experience of being controlled by technology and of receiving what is essentially automated justice These and other issues are explored and suggested as illuminating of both the real concerns underpinning this debate and potentially instructive for future attempts to control risky behaviour both within and beyond a road safety context

Competing Stories James Stamant,2019-11-08 Major changes in media in the late 19th and early 20th centuries challenged traditional ideas about artistic representation and opened new avenues for authors working in the modernist period Modernist authors reactions to this changing media landscape were often fraught with complications and shed light on the difficulty of negotiating understanding and depicting media The author of Competing Stories Modernist Authors Newspapers and the Movies argues that negative depictions of newspapers and movies in modernist fiction largely stem from worries about the competition for modern audiences and the desire for control over storytelling and reflections of the modern world This book looks at a moment of major change in media the dominance of mass media that began with the primarily visual media of newspapers and movies and the ways that authors like Ernest Hemingway Zora Neale Hurston James Joyce Djuna Barnes and others responded The author contends that an examination of this moment may facilitate a better understanding of the relationship between media and authorship in our constantly shifting media landscape

Return to an Address of the Honourable the House of Commons Dated 28th January 2004 for the Report of the Inquiry Into the Circumstances Surrounding the Death of Dr David Kelly C.M.G. Lord Brian Hutton,Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons,2004 This publication contains the report of the independent inquiry by Lord Hutton into the events leading up to the death of Dr David

Kelly the government weapons expert in July 2003 after he had been publicly named as the source of a report by Andrew Gilligan on BBC Radio Four's Today programme which had alleged that the government had pressurised the Joint Intelligence Committee to exaggerate the military threat posed by Iraq in its September 2002 dossier. The question of whether intelligence about Iraq's weapons of mass destruction justified going to war falls outside the scope of the inquiry. The report concludes that Dr Kelly took his own life because he felt he had been publicly disgraced after being named as the source for the BBC report but nobody was at fault in not contemplating the possibility of his suicide. Dr Kelly had broken official civil service procedures in having an unauthorised meeting with Andrew Gilligan, a fact that Dr Kelly later recognised. Due to uncertainties in Mr Gilligan's evidence and note taking and in his misuse of language it is not possible to reach a definite conclusion as to what Dr Kelly actually said. However, the report states its satisfaction that Dr Kelly did not say that the Government had insisted in the insertion of the 45 minute claim, probably knowing it to be wrong. Therefore the allegation is judged to have been unfounded. The BBC editorial system is found to have been defective in its failure to properly check the details of the allegations made by Andrew Gilligan before their broadcast and the BBC Governors and management system was at fault by failing to fully investigate complaints made by Alastair Campbell. The government is cleared of any dishonourable or underhand conduct in the public naming of Dr Kelly. Downing Street was entitled to suggest changes to the September dossier and it was appropriate for John Scarlett, head of the Joint Intelligence Committee, to take account of these. There was no covert strategy by the Ministry of Defence to leak his name although they were at fault for failing to give Dr Kelly sufficient notice that his name had been made public.

The NAEP 1997 Arts Report Card Hilary R. Persky, Brent A. Sandene, Janice M. Askew, 1998. The last several years have seen a growing resolve among educators and policymakers to assure the place of a solid arts education in U.S. schools. In 1997 the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) conducted a national assessment in the arts at grade 8. The assessment included the areas of music, theater, and visual arts. For each of these arts areas, this Report Card describes the achievement of eighth graders within the general population and in various subgroups. Taken with the information provided about instructional and institutional variables, this report gives a context for evaluating the status of students learning in the arts. The arts assessment was designed to measure the content specifications described in the arts framework for NAEP. The arts have a unique capacity to integrate intellect, emotions, and physical skills in the creation of meaning. Meaningful arts assessments need to be built around three arts processes: creating, performing, and responding. To capture these processes, the arts assessment exercises included authentic tasks that assessed students' knowledge and skills and constructed response and multiple choice questions that explore students' abilities to describe, analyze, interpret, and evaluate works of art in written form. Data are reported in overall summaries for creating, performing, and responding in terms of student and school reported background variables. Student results for theater are discussed in terms of teacher reported background variables as well. The major findings of the assessment are that a large percentage of grade 8 students attend schools in which music and visual arts were taught usually by specialists most students attended schools in which instruction following district or state curricula was offered in music and visual arts but not in theater or dance and most visual arts and music instruction took place in school facilities that were dedicated to that subject JH AI in Business and Economics Isabel Lausberg, Michael Vogelsang, 2024-09-23 Rapid advances in artificial intelligence AI technologies have generated intense interest and debate about their potential to reshape industries labour markets and socio economic structures This volume presents a collection of academic papers stemming from The Economic Perspective of Artificial Intelligence EPEAI conference held at the Ruhr West University of Applied Sciences in M lheim an der Ruhr Germany in March 2023 AI in Business and Economics discusses topics as varied as marketing accounting reporting business narratives forecasting generational differences in attitudes economic policy all in the context of exploring the multifaceted intersection of economics and artificial intelligence It navigates through the fog caused by the heterogeneity of diverse AI applications and methodologies by examining artificial intelligence from an economic perspective In doing so it becomes clear that the implementation of a broad range of AI technologies in companies has just begun Businesses employees and policy makers will soon have to adapt to the fast paced advancements in artificial intelligence ensuring they become and remain competitive ethical and forward thinking in a changing global landscape This book will serve as a valuable resource for scholars practitioners and students exploring the complexities of the economic implications of AI
