There is no experience quite like whitewater rafting. A journey to central Colorado in early summer 2005 witnessed the Arkansas River rushing with newly melted snow. This recount of river madness will show how intensely religious American fun can become.

Colorado in the summer blazes hot in the day and freezes cold at night. That did not stop camping out on the verdant grounds of Noah's Ark. This place was crawling with Christians who were ecstatic about another summer of providing big fun to their patrons. The river beckoned for good fishing, but screamed louder for rafting, and we hit it hard.

The first portion of the river meandered calmly in the mountain cathedrals, with steeples rising high among evergreen altars. From Buena Vista to Salida, the elevation drops a lot, and the river goes with it.

A placid stream that starts off calm could fool anybody. Yet, once one gets over the birds singing and the sun shining, then there flows a profound religious experience. Talk about rock and roll, icy baptisms and the jerks, these tremendous rapids that made Benny Hinn look mild. What an awakening!

There were several stages in this conversion experience. The Seven Sisters taught us a lesson that going down brought an emotional high. One right after the other, these stair steps led down to the place where all these kids received the anointing of fun. The river of excitement took a turn to a whirlpool where the raft almost tipped over. This served as a lesson that it takes effort in paddling to keep the boat upright.

Lunch by the river, communion by the stream, found everyone in sweet fellowship. As for care for bodily functions, the word was, "dilution, not pollution." Never drink the water.

The Arkansas meandered after lunch through the forest, with eagles soaring and skin burning. Cover up- if not, then burn. Most of the kids had wet suits on, but the fresh water never hits the skin if something artificial is on it. As the barges made their way to Salida, calmness came over us. The end of the matter provided time to reflect on what it took to get there.

Anyone who knows whitewater rafting realizes that God is everywhere, especially in Colorado.

Writing as a Learning Tool Päivi Tynjälä,L. Mason,K. Lonka,2012-12-06 In a brief summary the debate concerning the nature of writing processes is about whether the essential characteristic of expertise in writing is a matter of mastering problem solving strategies In this respect the role of social and interactive factors such as writers familiarity with the particular genre in which they are writing and their relationship with the discourse community in which they are participating have been pointed out e g Nystrand 1989 According to the socio interactive approach which refers to Vygotsky s theory the composition process is a dialogue between the writer and the reader made possible by socially shared knowledge The meaning of a text is a social construct that is negotiated between the reader and the writer through the medium of the text The importance of motivational aspects has also been highlighted by two main lines of research studies of the relationship between writing and self efficacy e g Pajares Benton Corkill Sharp Downey Khramtsova 1995 Hidi McLaren 1990 1991 Self efficacy in this context individuals beliefs about their ability to produce certain types of texts have been found to be predictive of writing skills strategy use and writing performance Common Core: PARCC ELA/Literacy

North Carolina was a unique setting where advanced writing programs and creativity flourished long before these trends emerged nationally Ritter profiles the history of the Woman s College first as a normal school where women trained as teachers with an emphasis on composition and analytical writing then as a liberal arts college She compares the burgeoning writing program here to those of the Seven Sisters Wellesley Smith Radcliffe Barnard Vassar Bryn Mawr and Mount Holyoke and to elite all male universities to show the singular progressivism of the Woman s College Ritter presents lively student writing samples from the early postwar period to reveal a blurring of the boundaries between creative and expository styles By midcentury a quantum shift toward creative writing changed administrators valuation of composition courses and staff at the Woman s College An intensive process of curricular revisions modeled after Harvard s Redbook plan was proposed and rejected in 1951 as the college stood by its unique curricula and singular values Ritter follows the plight of individual instructors of creative writing and composition showing how their compensation and standing were made disproportionate by the shifting position of expository writing in relation to creative writing Despite this unsettled period the Woman s College continued to gain in stature and by 1964 it became a prize acquisition of the University of North Carolina system Ritter s study demonstrates the value of local histories to uncover undocumented advancements in writing education offering insights into the political cultural and social conditions that influenced learning and methodologies at marginalized schools such as the Woman s College
