- I. Introduction: In this section, give the reader an idea of why your paper will be important and/or interesting, what you will be arguing, and make the organization of the paper clear to the reader.
 - a. Explanation of purpose and background information (optional): Explain why this topic needs to be written about (may require some background on the topic)
 - b. Thesis statement: A basic statement of your position; your answer to your research question
 - c. Expanded thesis statement: A brief listing of the major points that you will make in your paper, in the order in which you will make them
- II. Arguments: Each of your main arguments can either argue a point that supports your position, or argue against something you believe is wrong. This is a lengthy paper, so ideally you will have more than three arguments to make. You should make as many as you can. Organize your arguments to flow from one to the next or, ideally, to put your strongest arguments first and last.
 - a. Argument 1
 - i. Supporting evidence (author, pg. or para. #)
 - ii. More supporting evidence! (author, pg. or para. #)
 - iii. Even more supporting evidence!! (author, pg. or para. #)
 - b. Argument 2
 - i. Supporting evidence (author, pg. or para. #)
 - ii. More supporting evidence! (author, pg. or para. #)
 - iii. Even more supporting evidence!! (author, pg. or para. #)
 - c. Argument 3
 - i. Supporting evidence (author, pg. or para. #)
 - ii. More supporting evidence! (author, pg. or para. #)
 - iii. Even more supporting evidence!! (author, pg. or para. #)
- III. Conclusion: This section of your paper should summarize and look to the future.
 - a. Acknowledge the opposing side of the argument
 - b. Re-emphasize your own argument by summarizing the main points that you made
 - c. Draw final conclusions about the strength of your position

A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, Seventh Edition Kate L. Turabian, 2009-08-14 Dewey Bellow Strauss Friedman The University of Chicago has been the home of some of the most important thinkers of the modern age But perhaps no name has been spoken with more respect than Turabian The dissertation secretary at Chicago for decades Kate Turabian literally wrote the book on the successful completion and submission of the student paper Her Manual for Writers of Research Papers Theses and Dissertations created from her years of experience with research projects across all fields has sold more than seven million copies since it was first published in 1937. Now with this seventh edition, Turabian's Manual has undergone its most extensive revision, ensuring that it will remain the most valuable handbook for writers at every level, from first-year undergraduates to dissertation writers apprehensively submitting final manuscripts to senior scholars who may be old hands at research and writing but less familiar with new media citation styles. Gregory G. Colomb, Joseph M. Williams, and the late Wayne C. Booth, the gifted team behind The Craft of Research and the University of Chicago Press Editorial Staff, combined their wide-ranging expertise to remake this classic resource. They preserve Turabian's clear and practical advice while fully embracing the new modes of research writing and source citation brought about by the age of the Internet. Booth, Colomb, and Williams significantly expand the scope of previous editions by creating a guide generous in length and tone to the art of research and writing. Growing out of the authors' best-selling Craft of Research, this new section provides students with an overview of every step of the research and writing process, from formulating the right questions to reading critically to building arguments and revising drafts. This leads naturally to the second part of the Manual for Writers, which offers an authoritative overview of citation practices in scholarly writing as well as detailed information on the two main citation styles: notes/bibliography and author/date. This section has been fully revised to reflect the recommendations of the fifteenth edition of The Chicago Manual of Style and to present an expanded array of source types and updated examples, including guidance on citing electronic sources. The final section of the book treats issues of style, the details that go into making a strong paper. Here, writers will find advice on a wide range of topics, including punctuation, table formatting, and use of quotations. The appendix draws together everything writers need to know about formatting research papers, theses, and dissertations, and preparing them for submission. This material has been thoroughly vetted by dissertation officials at colleges and universities across the country. This seventh edition of Turabian's Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations is a classic reference, revised for a new age. It is tailored to a new generation of writers using tools its original author could not have imagined, while retaining the clarity and authority that generations of scholars have come to associate with the name Turabian.

Thesis Writing: Manual For All Researchers F. Abdul Rahim, 2007. Is a practical reference guide designed to focus on the specific and varied requirements of researchers and advisors. The book focuses on a standardized style and format for writing a thesis. Features the guidelines suggested by the MLA and the APA and explains and illustrates the number system and the traditional footnote style. The book includes a comprehensive treatment of thesis organization and documentation and extensive specimen pages of the various elements of the thesis. Problem areas such as thesis statements, quotation handling, and paraphrasing without plagiarism, and documentation of multivolume works are effectively exemplified. Also included are a detailed chapter on punctuation and mechanics, a chapter on some reminders on the question of style, and a thesis evaluation form. Guidelines for writing a research paper along with some writing samples are also
