Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a control group (CON) or an exercise group (EX). The EX group performed a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise. The HR and EE were measured at baseline and at the end of the 12-week training program. The EX group showed a significant decrease in HR and a significant increase in EE compared to the CON group. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week training program can effectively reduce HR and increase EE in sedentary, middle-aged women.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light sources. To avoid this, there are two things the producer should do:
 - 1. Use natural light sources, if possible, and
 - 2. If artificial light is required, use light that is as close to natural light as possible.
- The end of the day is the time when the day-night cycle is the most important. The producer should be aware of this and should be aware of the fact that the day-night cycle is the most important.
- The end of the day is the time when the day-night cycle is the most important. The producer should be aware of this and should be aware of the fact that the day-night cycle is the most important.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, if the price of the output rises, the producer will increase its output level until the marginal revenue is equal to the marginal cost.

Caution: Spilling, pouring, or introducing water through your furnace can be fatal. It is just this deadly, instantly fatal condition that keeps us in a state of denial. Fig. 10 illustrates why water isn't the top priority during a furnace inspection or monthly furnace oil safety maintenance procedure that safety inspectors do. Figure 10 is the central reality, and safety, power, gas, water and install items of life, death, or hell, are all secondary. The "Fatal Appeal"

Abstract: This research is an attempt to understand the role of the family in the development of the child. The study is based on the premise that the family is the primary socialization agent for the child. The study is based on the premise that the family is the primary socialization agent for the child.
