Integrative Computational Systems Biology Approaches in Immunology and Medicine Lars Kaderali, Fabian Theis, Esteban A. Hernandez-Vargas, Vitaly V. Ganusov, Stanca M. Ciupe, Ramit Mehr, Ruy Ribeiro, 2019-04-09 Weaving the Camp Hannah Schmidt, 2023-08-14 This book offers a socio spatial analysis of a refugee camp in southwestern Uganda Based on qualitative research with a multi method approach the author shows how refugees are central actors in the operation and becoming of a camp Not only do they crucially contribute to its social micro economic and material realization but they also incrementally rearrange the camp space by acts of constant adaptation in order to make it work for its inhabitants By means of social interaction infrastructuring translation movement and material improvisation they navigate daily life in the semi constricted and highly precarious space of the refugee protection regime and carve out its social and material landscape Thus this study challenges static understandings of camps and restricted conditions and puts forward theoretical implications for the rethinking and reassessment of agency in such contexts by calling for closer attention to ordinary practices

Getting Down to Earth World Bank, 2022-01-14 Outdoor air pollution accounts for an estimated 4.2 million deaths worldwide the majority of which are caused by exposure to fine particulate matter or PM_{2.5} air pollution Most of these deaths occur in low and middle income countries LMICs Reducing PM_{2.5} air pollution is thus crucial for improving public health outcomes in those countries Measuring and reducing the health impacts of PM_{2.5} is especially challenging in many LMICs because ground level air quality monitoring networks are typically nonexistent Where they are in place they are often not properly operated and maintained and are thus unreliable Limited local expertise in air quality measurement presents additional challenges These shortcomings can undermine a country's ability to design and implement effective policies to improve outdoor air quality Satellite technology has been used successfully for measuring air quality in high income countries where operation of ground level air quality monitoring networks is well established However Getting Down to Earth: Are Satellites Reliable for Measuring Air Pollutants That Cause Mortality in Low and Middle Income Countries investigates the performance of satellites in LMICs for predicting outdoor concentrations of PM_{2.5} based on case studies in nine cities in different regions representing a range of environmental conditions including mountainous dusty and coastal The report finds that the satellite derived estimates of PM_{2.5} in LMICs are associated with very large uncertainty ranging from 21 percent to 85 percent depending on the model used for translating satellite measurements of aerosol optical depth the parameter measured by satellites to surface level outdoor PM_{2.5} concentrations This report shows that satellites are unreliable for estimating ambient concentrations of PM_{2.5} in LMICs Furthermore satellite derived measurements cannot replace properly operated and maintained ground level monitoring networks for measuring the concentrations of PM_{2.5} that human beings are typically exposed to daily Thus it is important that LMICs strengthen support for the establishment of ground level monitoring networks to measure air pollutants notably PM_{2.5} that cause mortality in Sub Saharan Africa and other regions with LMICs

Do beliefs about agricultural inputs counterfeiting correspond with actual rates of counterfeiting?
Ashour, Maha, Billings, Lucy, Gilligan, Daniel, Hoel, Jessica B., Karachiwalla, Naureen, 2016-08-26 Adoption of productivity and income enhancing agricultural technologies is conspicuously low in Africa south of the Sahara Farmers beliefs regarding the authenticity of agricultural inputs are important for explaining technology adoption if farmers do not believe that inputs are genuine they are unlikely to invest in them The degree of alignment between beliefs about and actual counterfeiting can help explain both the social costs of the lemons problem and low rates of adoption This is the first paper to explore whether farmer beliefs regarding counterfeiting align with actual rates of counterfeiting and we do so across a very large geographic area serving tens of thousands of farmers in Uganda using a more precise measure of counterfeiting than many previous studies We examine the relationship between beliefs and counterfeiting using quantitative measures of farmer beliefs regarding the authenticity of herbicide in their local market as well as a large random sample of laboratory tested herbicide samples to measure counterfeiting rates in local markets We report evidence of considerable counterfeiting of herbicides in local markets with nearly one in three bottles containing less than 75 percent of the labeled concentration of active ingredient We find evidence that farmers beliefs regarding the extent of counterfeiting of herbicide are significantly associated with measures of the actual prevalence of counterfeiting in local markets These results indicate that farmers are at least partly informed about the market for lemons problem in local input markets However the results also suggest that although better informed farmers imply a lower social cost of counterfeiting the high rate of counterfeiting and the relative accuracy of farmer information contributes to low adoption of agricultural inputs in Africa
