Paul's Letter to the Philippians Ben Witherington, III, Ben Witherington, 2011-10-06 Paul's short affectionate letter to the Philippians has been much belabored of late by biblical scholars keen to analyze it in light of Greco Roman letter writing conventions Yet Ben Witherington argues that Philippians shouldn't be read as a letter at all but rather as a masterful piece of long distance oratory an extension of Paul's oral speech dictated to a scribe and meant to be read aloud to its recipients With this in mind Witherington analyzes Philippians in light of Greco Roman rhetorical conventions identifying Paul's purpose highlighting his main points and his persuasive strategies and considering how his audience denizens of a society of limited literacy yet saturated in highly skilled oral rhetoric would have heard and received Paul's message Publisher description

Marina Dossena, Stefano Rosso, 2016-06-22 Distinctive in its markedly interdisciplinary approach this book presents studies dealing with literary cultural and linguistic history both in Europe and in the US bringing together scholars from different fields while highlighting features that are shared among their contributions It offers new insights into phenomena which have generally been under investigated such as the role played by popular culture music and the arts in the circulation of information in the construction of popular taste and even in scientific popularisation on both sides of the Atlantic As for the choice to focus on the nineteenth century this is dictated by the fact that in those decades for the first time in history scientific technological and social developments accelerated simultaneously It is therefore important to see how such new knowledge was circulated among an ever growing audience by means of different genres and text types bearing in mind that divisions between the literary and non literary were hardly as sharp as they are today The book presents contributions by Robert Louis Abrahamson Nicholas Brownlees Bruno Cartosio Sonia Di Loreto Aileen Dillane Marina Dossena Kirsten Lawson Angela Locatelli William H Mulligan Jr Stefano Rosso and Polina Shvanyukova
