Street Kids Marlene Webber, 1991-12-15 In cities across North America teenage runaways are struggling to stay alive Some don't make it to adulthood Some do but their lives rarely rise above the despair that brought them to the streets in the first place A few manage to beat the street to get their lives back on track In this disturbing account Marlene Webber draws on extensive interviews with these kids to explore the realities of street life its attraction and its consequences Street kids like to project an image of themselves as free wheeling rebels who relish life on the wild side All brashness and bombast they strut around inner cities panhandling posturing and prostituting themselves Labelled society's bad boys and girls they often live up to their image But as sixteen year old Eugene tells us the street forces bravado on homeless adolescents but underneath a lot of kids are plenty scared Eugene is only one of many street kids who talked to Webber in major cities across Canada She lets her subjects tell their own stories their voices are sometimes brave sometimes bitter often heartbreaking Webber cuts a comprehensible path through the tangle of forces including family breakdown and social service failure that accelerate the tragedy of Canada's runaways. She suggests measures that might help more of them beat the streets.

Teaching Arguments Jennifer Fletcher, 2015 No matter where students live, after graduation one of the most essential tools we can teach them is how to comprehend, analyze, and respond to arguments. Students need to know how writers and speakers' choices are shaped by elements of the rhetorical situation, including audience, occasion, and purpose. In Teaching Arguments: Rhetorical Comprehension, Critique, and Response, Jennifer Fletcher provides teachers with engaging classroom activities, writing prompts, graphic organizers, and student samples to help students at all levels read, write, listen, speak, and think rhetorically. Fletcher believes that with appropriate scaffolding and encouragement, all students can learn a rhetorical approach to argument and gain access to rigorous academic content. Teaching Arguments opens the door and helps them pay closer attention to the acts of meaning around them, to notice persuasive strategies that might not be apparent at first glance. When we analyze and develop arguments, we have to consider more than just the printed words on the page. We have to evaluate multiple perspectives, the tension between belief and doubt, the interplay of reason, character, and emotion, the dynamics of occasion, audience, and purpose, and how our own identities shape what we read and write. Rhetoric teaches us how to do these things. Teaching Arguments will help students learn to move beyond a superficial response to texts so they can analyze and craft sophisticated persuasive arguments, a major cornerstone for being not just college and career ready but ready for the challenges of the world.
