Answer the following questions:

- 1.1 Describe the hydrologic cycle, components, and processes. The hydrologic cycle is a continuous process that moves water around the planet. It is driven by the sun's energy, which causes water to evaporate from the surface of the ocean and land. The water vapor then condenses into clouds, which eventually release the water as precipitation. The water then flows through the landscape, either as surface water (rivers, lakes, and oceans) or as groundwater (aquifers). The water eventually returns to the ocean, completing the cycle.
- 1.2 Define erosion, and the following erosion parts: head, channel, meander, oxbow lake, and floodplain. Erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface. It is caused by the movement of water and wind. The parts of an erosion are: head (the beginning of a river), channel (the path of a river), meander (a bend in a river), oxbow lake (a body of water that has been cut off from a river), and floodplain (the flat area of land adjacent to a river).
- 1.3 Define drainage basin and divide. A drainage basin is the area of land that drains water into a single body of water. A divide is the line that separates two drainage basins.
- 1.4 Define drainage pattern, dendritic, and rectangular drainage patterns. A drainage pattern is the way in which a river and its tributaries flow. A dendritic drainage pattern is one in which the tributaries join the main river at right angles. A rectangular drainage pattern is one in which the tributaries join the main river at right angles.
- 1.5 Describe how erosion, transportation, and deposition are affected by wind and water. Erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface. Transportation is the process of moving the eroded material. Deposition is the process of dropping the eroded material. Wind and water are the two main agents of erosion, transportation, and deposition.
- 1.6 Define alluvial, wind, and glacial erosion. Alluvial erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface by water. Wind erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface by wind. Glacial erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface by ice.
- 1.7 Describe how erosion, transportation, and deposition are affected by wind and water. Erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface. Transportation is the process of moving the eroded material. Deposition is the process of dropping the eroded material. Wind and water are the two main agents of erosion, transportation, and deposition.
- 1.8 Define the mechanisms of erosion: wind, water, and ice. Wind erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface by wind. Water erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface by water. Ice erosion is the process of wearing away the Earth's surface by ice.
- 1.9 Define the different types of sediment: sand, silt, and clay. Sand is the largest type of sediment. Silt is the middle type of sediment. Clay is the smallest type of sediment.
