Askew, 1998 The last several years have seen a growing resolve among educators and policymakers to assure the place of a solid arts education in U S schools In 1997 the National Assessment of Educational Progress NAEP conducted a national assessment in the arts at grade 8 The assessment included the areas of music theater and visual arts For each of these arts areas this Report Card describes the achievement of eighth graders within the general population and in various subgroups Taken with the information provided about instructional and institutional variables this report gives a context for evaluating the status of students learning in the arts The arts assessment was designed to measure the content specifications described in the arts framework for NAEP The arts have a unique capacity to integrate intellect emotions and physical skills in the creation of meaning Meaningful arts assessments need to be built around three arts processes creating performing and responding To capture these processes the arts assessment exercises included authentic tasks that assessed students knowledge and skills and constructed response and multiple choice questions that explore students abilities to describe analyze interpret and evaluate works of art in written form Data are reported in overall summaries for creating performing and responding in terms of student and school reported background variables Student results for theater are discussed in terms of teacher reported background variables as well The major findings of the assessment are that a large percentage of grade 8 students attend schools in which music and visual arts were taught usually by specialists most students attended schools in which instruction following district or state curricula was offered in music and visual arts but not in theater or dance and most visual arts and music instruction took place in school facilities that were dedicated to that subject JH

Gender, Media, Sport Susanna Hedenborg, Gertrud Pfister, 2017-10-02 Despite the position that sport occupies at the centre of public attention and despite the billions of consumers and immense coverage which it attracts from around the globe it seems that the media prioritise coverage of only a very small fraction of sporting events and a few prominent athletes It goes without saying that sport in the media is dominated by men they are a large majority among athletes consumers journalists and producers This book will shed new light on the long discussed question of gendered sporting coverage in an era when the Olympics can be dubbed the women s games Some of the contributions present new perspectives such as the relationship between media and sport in Poland media presentations of men and women in gender adequate and inadequate sports competition between women and men participating in the same events the presentation of celebrities and the framing of doping within the context of gender relations Furthermore the book focuses not only on athletes sports and events but also on consumers such as hooligans and their brand of masculinity and on journalists such as Mike Penner who attempted to transgress gender boundaries This book was originally published as a special issue of Sport in Society      New Perspectives on Education for Democracy Stewart Riddle, Amanda Heffernan, David Bright, 2021-11-29 New Perspectives on Education for Democracy brings together diverse communities of education research in an innovative way to develop a nuanced understanding of the relationship between education and democracy This book synthesises a range of theoretical conceptual and empirical approaches to address the complex challenges faced by young people and societies in the 21st century Each chapter provides accounts of local democratic encounters in education while engaging with global debates and issues such as de democratisation and growing social economic and educational inequality This book presents new ways of thinking about democracy local global enactments of democracy through teaching and learning and future thinking for a new era of democracy This book will be relevant for educators researchers and policymakers who are interested in educational sociology critical pedagogy and democratic education      The American Review of Reviews Albert Shaw,1917      Multiliteracies in World Language Education Yuri Kumagai,Ana López-Sánchez,Sujane Wu,2015-10-05 Putting a multiliteracies framework at the center of the world language curriculum this volume brings together college level curricular innovations and classroom projects that address differences in meaning and worldviews expressed in learners primary and target languages Offering a rich understanding of languages genres and modalities as socioculturally situated semiotic systems it advocates an effective pedagogy for developing learners abilities to operate between languages Chapters showcase curricula that draw on a multiliteracies framework and present various classroom projects that develop aspects of multiliteracies for language learners A discussion of the theoretical background and historical development of the pedagogy of multiliteracies and its relevance to the field of world language education positions this book within the broader literature on foreign language education As developments in globalization accountability and austerity challenge contemporary academia and the current structure of world language programs this book shows how the implementation of a multiliteracies based approach brings coherence to language programs and how the framework can help to accomplish the goals of higher education in general and of language education in particular      The Fast and The Furious: Drivers, Speed Cameras and Control in a Risk

Society Helen Wells,2022-03-26 The Fast and The Furious Drivers Speed Cameras and Control in a Risk Society presents a sociological and criminological perspective critical to understanding the driver s role at the centre of road safety interventions Such an approach is it is argued as crucial to an understanding of attempts to reduce road crashes deaths and injuries as approaching such questions from an engineering or educational perspective The book offers an explanation for the continued debate about one road safety intervention the speed camera by situating that debate within contemporary literature about the risk society Beck 1992 and more broadly understood experiences of risk faced on a daily basis by drivers Rather than a focus on risk as something that can be objectively assessed measured and managed separately from the social context in which it is encountered it suggests that risk is something that permeates this particular debate from every angle The book achieves its aims by utilising sociological and criminological perspectives to investigate issues such as the social context in which it is possible for drivers to reject official scientific expertise about crash causation and camera effectiveness the self defined respectability of the population being problematised and its juxtaposition with a proper police focus on real criminals the reconceptualisation of law breaking as risk taking rather than inherently wrong behaviour and its consequences for the enforcement of laws based on risk assessment the experience of being controlled by technology and of receiving what is essentially automated justice These and other issues are explored and suggested as illuminating of both the real concerns underpinning this debate and potentially instructive for future attempts to control risky behaviour both within and beyond a road safety context
