It aims to save energy by reducing energy consumption associated with extracting, processing and transporting raw materials and waste, and also to reduce and eventually eliminate the need for landfills and incinerators. This book presents the various principles, methods and tools that can be used to address different issues in the areas of industrial waste reduction and sustainability. It examines how to eliminate waste at the source and at all points of a supply chain and how to shift from the current one-way linear resource model to a sustainable closed-loop system. Proposes strategies for businesses to reduce and reuse waste with a goal of reaching a zero waste status. Focuses on how mitigating waste and promoting recycling can save vast amounts of energy. Explains how the zero waste approach would be a key measure to ensure environmental sustainability and help to offset global climate change. Research in Education, 1972

development indicators are strongly related to per capita energy consumption Fossil fuel is the most conventional source of energy but also increases greenhouse gas emissions The economic development of many countries has come at the cost of the environment However it should not be presumed that a reconciliation of the two is not possible The nexus concept is the interconnection between the resource energy water food land and climate Such interconnections enable us to address trade offs and seek synergies among them Energy water food land and climate are essential resources of our natural environment and support our quality of life Competition between these resources is increasing globally and is exacerbated by climate change Improving resilience and securing resource availability would require improving resource efficiency Many policies and programs are announced nationally and internationally for replacing the conventional mode and also emphasizing on conservation of fossil fuels and reuse of exhausted energy so a gap in implications and outcomes can be broadly traced by comparing the data This book aims to highlight problems and solutions related to conventional energy utilization formation and multitudes of ecological impacts and tools for the conservation of fossil fuels The book also discusses modern energy services as one of the sustainable development goals and how the pressure on resource energy disturbs the natural flows The recent advances in alternative energy sources and their possible future growth are discussed and on how conventional energy leads to greenhouse gas formation which reduces energy use efficiency The different policies and models operating is also addressed and the gaps that remained between them Climate change poses a challenge for renewable energy and thus it is essential to identify the factors that would reduce the possibility of relying on sustainable energy sources This book will be of interest to researchers and stakeholders students industries NGOs and governmental agencies directly or indirectly associated with energy research
