Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was conducted in a community-based setting. The participants were 30 women, aged 40-50 years, who were sedentary and had no history of cardiovascular disease. They were randomly assigned to two groups: a training group and a control group. The training group participated in a 12-week program of aerobic and strength training, while the control group remained sedentary. The study was conducted in a community-based setting.
