Caring for Justice Robin West, 1999-03 Over the past decade mainstream feminist theory has repeatedly and urgently cautioned against arguments which assert the existence of fundamental or essential differences between men and women Any biological or natural differences between the sexes are often flatly denied on the grounds that such an acknowledgment will impede women's claims to equal treatment In Caring for Justice Robin West turns her sensitive measured eye to the consequences of this widespread refusal to consider how women's lived experiences and perspectives may differ from those of men Her work calls attention to two critical areas in which an inadequate recognition of women's distinctive experiences has failed jurisprudence We are in desperate need she contends both of a theory of justice which incorporates women's distinctive moral voice on the meaning of justice into our discourse and of a theory of harm which better acknowledges compensates and seeks to prevent the various harms which women disproportionately and distinctively suffer Providing a fresh feminist perspective on traditional jurisprudence West examines such issues as the nature of justice the concept of harm economic theories of value and the utility of constitutional discourse She illuminates the adverse repercussions of the anti essentialist position for jurisprudence and offers strategies for correcting them Far from espousing a return to essentialism West argues an anti anti essentialism which greatly refines our understanding of the similarities and differences between women and men
