The Columbia Guide to South African Literature in English Since 1945 Gareth Cornwell, Dirk Kloppe, Craig Mackenzie, 2010-04-13 From the outset South Africa's history has been marked by division and conflict along racial and ethnic lines From 1948 until 1994 this division was formalized in the National Party's policy of apartheid Because apartheid intruded on every aspect of private and public life South African literature was preoccupied with the politics of race and social engineering Since the release from prison of Nelson Mandela in 1990 South Africa has been a new nation in the making inspired by a nonracial idealism yet beset by poverty and violence South African writers have responded in various ways to Njabulo Ndebele's call to rediscover the ordinary The result has been a kaleidoscope of texts in which evolving cultural forms and modes of identity are rearticulated and explored An invaluable guide for general readers as well as scholars of African literary history this comprehensive text celebrates the multiple traditions and exciting future of the South African voice Although the South African Constitution of 1994 recognizes no fewer than eleven official languages English has remained the country's literary lingua franca This book offers a narrative overview of South African literary production in English from 1945 to the postapartheid present An introduction identifies the most interesting and noteworthy writing from the period Alphabetical entries provide accurate and objective information on genres and writers An appendix lists essential authors published before 1945

Trade Infrastructure and Economic Development David Olusanya Ajakaiye, T. Ademola Oyejide, 2012-03-12 There is growing consensus in the literature that trade and trade policy matter for a pro poor growth and development strategy Therefore policies that are consistent with this strategy feature increasingly in many African countries where poverty is endemic and rapid and where sustainable economic growth is viewed as the major vehicle for poverty reduction Key elements of these policies include measures that promote the expansion and diversification of production and trade in Africa This book is aimed at articulating appropriate structural and policy measures for eliminating the constraints that African countries face and thus ensuring that they can derive maximum benefits from all available market access opportunities There is evidence that most African countries face external market access barriers in their major export destinations which are generally less constraining than those confronting countries in other developing country regions Yet they have generally not been able to take full advantage of the special preferential market access opportunities available to them This suggests that improved external market access whether reciprocal or preferential would not by itself be sufficient for strengthening African export performance In this collection export supply response capacity takes external beyond the border factors as given and concentrates primarily on the internal behind the border factors that influence production and distribution costs and thus competitiveness The central working hypothesis of this book is that the inability of domestic producers and exporters in Africa to respond quickly effectively and efficiently to external market access opportunities is caused by various limitations of their internal supply capacity and that this in turn is largely responsible for the lacklustre export performance of many African countries This comprehensive study should be of interest to students and researchers of international trade and development economics as well as African studies

English as a Language of Teaching and Learning for Community Secondary Schools in Tanzania Elia Shabani Mligo, Mikael Mwashilindi, 2017-08-07 This book examines the challenges posed by English a foreign language as a language of teaching and learning for community secondary schools in Tanzania in terms of academic performance The book probes the necessity for having two languages of instruction in the Tanzanian educational system While Kiswahili the native language is predominantly understood by the majority of people the discussion in this book indicates that most students in community secondary schools in Tanzania are incompetent in understanding writing listening reading and speaking English a language they use in learning and doing their examinations especially in the early stages of their secondary studies The incompetence in the above mentioned skills is mostly caused by their inability to cope with the abrupt transition in the languages of instruction from their pre primary and primary school study Kiswahili to secondary school study English Moreover most teachers are unable to use the English language as a means to impart knowledge or facilitate learning to their students leading them to code switching and code mixing This book poses a challenge to countries whose students pass through a transition from one language of instruction to another in their educational systems helping them to make appropriate decisions in regard to the appropriate language of teaching and learning

Secondary Cities and Local Governance in Southern Africa Abraham R. Matamanda, James Chakwizira, Kudzai Chatiza, Verna Nel, 2024-01-16 This book is the first to consider the roles challenges and governance responses of secondary cities in southern Africa to changing circumstances Among the challenges are governance under conditions of resource scarcity managing informality the effects and responses to climate change and the changing roles of the cities within the national space economy It fills the gap in the literature on secondary cities with original case studies drawn from South Africa Zimbabwe and Mozambique The authors are all African scholars working and living in the region with intimate knowledge of the settings they describe The book is critical as it includes such regional case studies of different secondary cities in Southern Africa but also because of its multidisciplinary it contains substantive and pertinent issues such as climate change disaster management local economic development and basic services delivery It considers diverse environments yet with similar challenges that could provide useful policy and governance proposals for other cities

The Delusion of Knowledge Transfer Susanne Koch, Peter Weingart, 2016-12-13 With the rise of the knowledge for development paradigm expert advice has become a prime instrument of foreign aid At the same time it has been object of repeated criticism the chronic failure of technical assistance a notion under which advice is commonly subsumed has been documented in a host of studies Nonetheless international organisations continue to send advisors promising to increase the effectiveness of expert support if their technocratic recommendations are taken up This book reveals fundamental problems of expert advice in the context of aid that concern issues of power and legitimacy rather than merely flaws of implementation Based on empirical evidence from South Africa and Tanzania the authors show that aid related advisory processes are inevitably obstructed by colliding interests political pressures and hierarchical relations that impede knowledge transfer and mutual learning As a result recipient governments find themselves caught in a perpetual cycle of dependency continuously advised by experts who convey the shifting paradigms and agendas of their respective donor governments For young democracies the persistent presence of external actors is hazardous ultimately it poses a threat to the legitimacy of their governments if their policy making becomes more responsive to foreign demands than to the preferences and needs of their citizens
