Programming Charlotte E. Howell, 2020-03-02 From the mid 90s to the present television drama with religious content has come to reflect the growing cultural divide between white middle America and concentrated urban elites As author Charlotte E Howell argues in this book by 2016 television narratives of white Christianity had become entirely disconnected from the religion they were meant to represent Programming labeled family friendly became a euphemism for white middlebrow America and developing audience niches became increasingly significant to serial dramatic television Utilizing original case studies and interviews Divine Programming investigates the development writing producing marketing and positioning of key series including 7th Heaven Friday Night Lights Rectify Supernatural Jane the Virgin Daredevil and Preacher As this book shows there has historically been a deep ambivalence among television production cultures regarding religion and Christianity more specifically It illustrates how middle American television audiences lost significance within the Hollywood television industry and how this in turn has informed and continues to inform television programming on a larger scale In recent years upscale audience niches have aligned with the perceived tastes of affluent educated multicultural and importantly secular elites As a result the televised representation of white Christianity had to be othered and shifted into the unreality of fantastic genres to appeal to niche audiences To examine this effect Howell looks at religious representation through four approaches establishment distancing displacement and use and looks at series across a variety of genres and outlets in order to provide varied analyses of each theme

The Donna Reed Show Joanne Morreale, 2012-10-01 Analyzes The Donna Reed Show which aired from 1958 to 1966 as a key moment of cultural transition At a time when television offered limited opportunities for women Donna Reed was an Oscar winning Hollywood actress who became both producer though largely uncredited and star of her own television show Distinct from the patriarchal family sitcoms of the era The Donna Reed Show's storylines focused on the mother instead of the father and its production brought a cinematic aesthetic to television situation comedy In The Donna Reed Show author Joanne Morreale illustrates how the program pushed the boundaries of the domestic sitcom at a time when the genre was evolving and also reflected the subtle shifts and undercurrents of unrest in the larger social and political culture Morreale begins by locating Donna Reed in relation to her predecessors Gertrude Berg and Lucille Ball both of whom were strong female presences in front of and behind the camera She also explores the telefilm aesthetics of The Donna Reed Show and argues that the series is a prime example of the emergent synergy between Hollywood and the television industry in the late fifties In addition Morreale argues that the Donna Stone character's femininity acts as a kind of masquerade as well as provides a proto feminist model for housewives She also examines the show's representation of teen culture and its role in launching the singing careers of its two teenaged stars Finally Morreale considers the legacy of The Donna Reed Show in the representation of its values in later sitcoms and its dialogue with contemporary television texts Morreale illustrates the interplay of gender industry and culture at work in the history of this classic TV series Fans of the show as well as students and teachers of television history will enjoy this close
