Rocky Mountain Druggist ,1923 Perinatal and Postpartum Mood Disorders Susan Dowd Stone,Alexis E. Menken,2008-05-12 As a psychotherapist and educator of future mental health practitioners I believe this work fills an important gap in reference books for professionals who care for childbearing women Since the volume provides invaluable neurobiological research on depression and anxiety I recommend this work to all health and mental health professionals Illness Crisis and Loss Over the past three years pregnancy related mood disorders have become the focus of health care advocates and legislators alike with subsequent reflection in nationwide media Statistics on the prevalence of perinatal mood disorders suggest that up to 20% of women experience diagnosable pregnancy related mood disorders The growing recognition of these common disorders coupled with an increasing knowledge base about the dire consequences of untreated maternal depression has propelled this issue to the fore of national public health priorities This increasing awareness has also resulted in recent legislative and healthcare initiatives to screen assess and treat such disorders On April 13 2006 Governor Jon S Corzine D NJ signed a law requiring all new mothers to be educated and screened for postpartum depression This law is the first of its kind in the country but many states and federal advocates are proposing similar laws The motivation for states and the federal government to adopt education and screening program is high and may soon be a federal mandate But a major barrier to successful implementation of such programs is the lack of available resources to train healthcare professionals in this specialty This book offers a major resource for healthcare professionals mental health professionals and medical nursing psychology and social work students who will be confronting this problem in their practices The contributions by renowned experts fill a glaring gap in the knowledge professionals need in order to successfully manage maternal mental health World Review of Nutrition and Dietetics Geoffrey Howard Bourne,Artemis P. Neuro-Immune Interactions in Inflammation and Autoimmunity Valentin A. Pavlov, Niccolo Terrando, 2018-07-24 The nervous system plays an important role in the regulation of immunity and inflammation. On the other hand, unbalanced immune responses in inflammatory and autoimmune conditions may have a deleterious impact on neuronal integrity and brain function. Recent studies have characterized neural pathways communicating peripheral inflammatory signals to the CNS and brain and spinal cord derived circuitries controlling various innate and adaptive immune responses and inflammation. A prototypical neural reflex circuit that regulates immunity and inflammation is the vagus nerve based inflammatory reflex. Ongoing research has revealed cellular and molecular mechanisms underlying these neural circuits and indicated new therapeutic approaches in inflammatory and autoimmune disorders. Pharmacological and bioelectronic modulation of neural circuitry has been successfully explored in preclinical settings of sepsis, arthritis, inflammatory bowel disease, obesity driven disorders, diabetes and other diseases. These studies paved the way to successful clinical trials with bioelectronic neuronal modulation in rheumatoid arthritis and inflammatory bowel disease. Dysregulated release of cytokines and other inflammatory molecules may have a severe impact on brain function. Brain inflammation, neuroinflammation, imbalances in brain neuronal integrity and neurotransmitter systems and cognitive impairment are characteristic features of post-operative conditions, sepsis, liver diseases, diabetes and other disorders characterized by immune and metabolic dysregulation. Derangements in cytokine release also play a pivotal role in depression. Characteristic brain reactive antibodies in autoimmune conditions including systemic lupus erythematosus and neuromyelitis optica significantly contribute to brain pathology and cognitive impairment. These studies and the simultaneous characterization of neuro-protective cytokines identified new therapeutic approaches for treating neurological complications in inflammatory and autoimmune disorders. This Frontiers Research Topic is a forum for publishing research findings and methodological and conceptual advances at the intersection of immunology and neuroscience. We hope that presenting new insight into bi-directional neuro-immune communication in inflammation and autoimmunity will foster further collaborations and facilitate the development of new efficient therapeutic strategies.
