Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 15 sedentary women, 30 to 45 years of age, who were randomly selected from a telephone directory. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The control group consisted of 7 women who did not exercise, and the exercise group consisted of 8 women who exercised for 10 weeks. The exercise group was instructed to exercise for 30 minutes, 3 times a week, at a heart rate of 150 beats per minute. The control group was instructed to remain sedentary. The subjects were monitored for 10 weeks. The HR and EE were measured at the beginning and end of the 10-week period. The HR and EE of the exercise group increased significantly compared to the control group. The HR of the exercise group increased from 140 to 150 beats per minute, and the EE of the exercise group increased from 1,200 to 1,400 kcal per day. The HR and EE of the control group remained unchanged. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can increase the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light sources. To avoid this, there are two things the producer should do:
 - 1. Turn off the lights at the end of the day.
 - 2. Avoid excessive light intensity, the length of the day and the light spectrum (the color of the light) are important.
- The end of the day is the best time to change the light spectrum. The producer should be looking for the color of the light to be similar to the color of the sky at the end of the day. The light should be similar to the color of the sky at the end of the day. The light should be similar to the color of the sky at the end of the day.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (50 combinations for One Connection) will void the warranty. Please, before installing, refer to the correct installation instructions. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a serious problem with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, suppose the price for the output rises. The producer will want to produce more of the output because the marginal revenue from selling the output is now higher. The producer will continue to increase output until the marginal revenue is equal to the marginal cost of producing the output.
