Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were randomly assigned to a control group (CON) and an exercise group (EX). The EX group performed a 10-week training program consisting of three sessions per week. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during submaximal and maximal exercise at baseline and after 10 weeks. The EX group showed a significant decrease in HR at rest and during submaximal and maximal exercise compared to the CON group. The HRR also showed a significant increase in the EX group compared to the CON group. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.

- Day and night temperatures that are longer than the standard atmospheric conditions will negatively affect the rate of decomposition of organic materials. To know that, there are factors that produce the change in the state of the forest.
- Ground moisture affects the rate of decomposition. The rate of decay is slow in dry conditions, the length of the process may be interrupted for long periods of time. The soil moisture is important.
- The soil pH affects the rate of decomposition. The rate changes the pH of the soil. The process of decay is faster in acidic soils than in basic soils. The pH of the soil is important for the rate of decomposition.
- Ground, sand, and gravel affect the rate of decomposition.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (50 combinations for One Connection) will void the warranty. Please, before installing, refer to the correct installation instructions. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a serious problem with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, suppose the price for the output rises. The producer will want to produce more of the output, and this will require hiring more workers. The producer will also want to use more of the other inputs, and this will require hiring more of those inputs. The producer will also want to use more of the other inputs, and this will require hiring more of those inputs.
