The Report: Trinidad & Tobago 2020 Oliver Cornock, Trinidad and Tobago is the largest producer of oil and gas in the Caribbean however like many hydrocarbon producing nations worldwide the slump in global energy prices beginning in 2014 negatively affected broader growth While there is a need to diversify the economy away from its dependence on hydrocarbons a number of new oil and gas discoveries in late 2019 appear set to support a short term recovery in the energy sector and lend financing to the wider economy

Sea and Land Philip D. Morgan, John Robert McNeill, Matthew Mulcahy, Stuart B. Schwartz, 2022 Sea and Land provides an in depth environmental history of the Caribbean to ca 1850 with a coda that takes the story into the modern era It explores the mixing movement and displacement of peoples and the parallel ecological mixing of animals plants microbes from Africa Europe elsewhere in the Americas and as far away as Asia It examines first the arrival of Native American to the region and the environmental transformations that followed It then turns to the even more dramatic changes that accompanied the arrival of Europeans and Africans in the fifteenth century Throughout it argues that the constant arrival dispersal and mingling of new plants and animals gave rise to a creole ecology Particular attention is given to the emergence of Black slavery sugarcane and the plantation system an unholy trinity that thoroughly transformed the region's demographic and physical landscapes and made the Caribbean a vital site in the creation of the modern western world Increased attention to issues concerning natural resources conservation epidemiology and climate have now made the environment and ecology of the Caribbean a central historical concern Sea and Land is an effort to integrate that research in a new general environmental history of the region Intended for scholars and students alike it aims to foster both a fuller appreciation of the extent to which environmental factors shaped historical developments in the Caribbean and the extent to which human actions have transformed the biophysical environment of the region over time The combined work of eminent authors of environment and Latin American and Caribbean history Sea and Land offers a unique approach to a region characterized by Edenic nature and paradisiacal qualities as well as dangers diseases and disasters

A Sea Full of Turtles Bill Streever, 2024-07-02 An inspired and impassioned story of adventure that explores the richness of marine life and charts a path of resilience and hope Everyone alive today is witnessing a mass extinction event caused by the more than eight billion humans who share this planet At times it seems there is little hope Climate change resource exploitation agrochemicals overfishing plastics dead zones in our oceans drought and desertification conversion of habitat to housing farming and industrial infrastructure the list of impacts and insults goes on and on We are it seems on an unalterable path that will continue to decimate biodiversity A feeling of hopelessness while not unwarranted is part of the problem Without hope without some belief in the possibility of positive outcomes the fight for nature is over Why even try if the battle is already lost While staring the problems squarely in the face A Sea Full of Turtles offers hope for those who care about our living world Delivered as a travel narrative set in Mexico's Gulf of California Sea of Cortez at one level the book focuses on dramatically underfunded but highly successful efforts to protect sea turtles But the book goes beyond Mexico and beyond sea turtles to look at how some humans have changed their relationship with nature and how that change can one day end the extinction crisis Enchanting galvanizing and brimming with joy and wonder A Sea Full of Turtles will inspire immediate action to face the great challenges that lie ahead Pessimism is the lazy way out Optimism it turns out is both a reasonable and an essential attitude for us all as we fight for the beautiful diversity of life on our Earth

Sea of Storms Stuart B. Schwartz, 2016-07-26 A panoramic social history of hurricanes in the Caribbean The diverse cultures of the Caribbean have been shaped as much by hurricanes as they have by diplomacy commerce or the legacy of colonial rule In this panoramic work of social history Stuart Schwartz examines how Caribbean societies have responded to the dangers of hurricanes and how these destructive storms have influenced the region's history from the rise of plantations to slavery and its abolition to migrations racial conflict and war Taking readers from the voyages of Columbus to the devastation of Hurricane Katrina Schwartz looks at the ethical political and economic challenges that hurricanes posed to the Caribbean's indigenous populations and the different European peoples who ventured to the New World to exploit its riches He describes how the United States provided the model for responding to environmental threats when it emerged as a major power and began to exert its influence over the Caribbean in the nineteenth century and how the region's governments came to assume greater responsibilities for prevention and relief efforts that by the end of the twentieth century were being questioned by free market neoliberals Schwartz sheds light on catastrophes like Katrina by framing them within a long and contentious history of human interaction with the natural world Spanning more than five centuries and drawing on extensive archival research in Europe and the Americas Sea of Storms emphasizes the continuing role of race social inequality and economic ideology in the shaping of our responses to natural disaster

Transforming Public Education in Africa, the Caribbean, and the Middle East Cynthia S Sunal,Kagendo Mutua,Oluseyi Matthew Odebiyi,2019-05-01 Public education has expanded to serve large populations across the regions of Africa the Caribbean and the Middle East Many nations in these regions are moving into a phase of public education in which a variety of factors are being identified as influencing the quality of public education and its ability to serve all children and adolescents It has become evident that ethnic background gender religious affiliation and ability disability are important factors in who is served and how well the individual is served The chapters in this volume Book 8 of Research on Education in Africa the Caribbean and the Middle East document and describe the status success and limitations of public education s efforts at transformation They provide points from which further research and practice might occur

Dispute Resolution in the Law of the Sea Igor V. Karaman,2012-02-17 The 1982 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea has been frequently referred to as the constitution for the oceans and as one of the most important events in the history of modern international law Representing one of the treaties most widely accepted by the international community the adoption of the Convention had a long and difficult passage explained in part by the varied and often irreconcilable interests at stake during the Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea In this context one of the primary merits of the Convention is its successful accommodation of the interests involved an accomplishment which has contributed to the view that the Convention constitutes one of the major compromises in the history of international treaty law making A detailed dispute settlement system represents a significant achievement of the Convention an aspect on which Dispute Resolution in the Law of the Sea focuses The book aims at examining the resolution of disputes which have emerged since the Convention s entry into force and at analyzing the role of compulsory procedures entailing binding decisions through the prism of general international law and jurisprudence An overall evaluation of the effectiveness of the functioning of the dispute settlement system under the Convention is presented and annexes offer a compendium of the LOSC related disputes together with various means involved in their resolution as well as maritime delimitation agreements and the provisional arrangements negotiated by States

The South China Sea Arbitration Stefan Talmon,Bing Bing Jia,2014-11-01 On 22 January 2013 the Republic of the Philippines instituted arbitral proceedings against the People s Republic of China PRC under the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea UNCLOS with regard to disputes between the two countries in the South China Sea South China Sea Arbitration On 19 February 2013 the PRC formally expressed its opposition to the institution of proceedings making it clear from the outset that it will not have any part in these arbitral proceedings and that this position will not change It is thus to be expected that over the next year and a half the Tribunal will receive written memorials and hear oral submissions from the Philippines only. The Chinese position will go unheard. However, the Tribunal is under an obligation before making its award to satisfy itself not only that it has jurisdiction over the dispute but also that the claims brought by the Philippines are well founded in fact and law. UNCLOS Annex VII Article 9. This book aims to offer a not the Chinese perspective on some of the issues to be decided by the Tribunal and thus to assist the Tribunal in meeting its obligations under the Convention. The book does not set out the official position of the Chinese government but is rather to serve as a kind of amicus curiae brief advancing possible legal arguments on behalf of the absent respondent. The book does not deal with the merits of the disputes between the Philippines and the PRC but focuses on the questions of jurisdiction, admissibility and other objections which the tribunal will have to decide as a preliminary matter. The book will show that there are insurmountable preliminary objections to the Tribunal deciding the case on the merits and that the Tribunal would be well advised to refer the dispute back to the parties in order for them to reach a negotiated settlement. The book brings together scholars of public international law from mainland China, Taiwan and Europe united by a common interest in the law of the sea and disputes in the South China Sea. This title is included in Bloomsbury Professional's International Arbitration online service.
