Food for All in Africa Gordon Conway, Ousmane Badiane, Katrin Glatzel, 2019-11-15 Africa requires a new agricultural transformation that is appropriate for Africa that recognizes the continent's diverse environments and climates and that takes into account its histories and cultures while benefiting rural smallholder farmers and their families In this boldly optimistic book Sir Gordon Conway Ousmane Badiane and Katrin Glatzel describe the key challenges faced by Africa's smallholder farmers and present the concepts and practices of Sustainable Intensification SI as opportunities to sustainably transform Africa's agriculture sector and the livelihoods of millions of smallholders The way forward they write will be an agriculture sector deeply rooted within SI producing more with less using fertilizers and pesticides more prudently adapting to climate change improving natural capital adopting new technologies and building resilience at every stage of the agriculture value chain Food for All in Africa envisions a virtuous circle generated through agricultural development rooted in SI that results in greater yields healthier diets improved livelihoods for farmers and sustainable economic opportunities for the rural poor that in turn generate further investment It describes the benefits of digital technologies for farmers and the challenges of transforming African agricultural policies and creating effective and inspiring leadership Food for All in Africa demonstrates why we should take on the challenge and provides ideas and methods through which it can be met Africa's Agricultural Renaissance Ayodele Odusola,2021-06-26 This book addresses the paradox between preponderance of hunger in a continent that is well endowed with fertile agricultural land plenty of fresh water and a vibrant labor force As some statistics show close to 60% of arable land in the world is located in Africa which also has several rivers flowing in all seasons and plenty of underground water The bulk of its labor force thrives on agriculture yet the continent s largest import item is food 23 of 36 the most malnourished countries also belong in Africa This has caused significant needless human suffering This book goes beyond providing the traditional framework of supplying policy recommendations to delivering an applied innovative framework upon which policymakers the private sector and international institutions can take clear and deliberate action to stimulate Africa s agricultural sector thus responding to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development

Management for Sustainable Development Carolina Machado,J. Paulo Davim,2022-09-01 Today increasingly more the word sustainability is present in all kinds of discussions at home at work at school in all society Conscious of the environment where we live everybody looks to find the best solutions to solve problems that result from Human Being evolution Management for a sustainable development appears as a process from which organizations try to use all its resources as well as improve its organizational and technological development in order to answer not only to the present but also to future human and social needs Only in this way is it possible to improve the quality of life Seen in this way sustainable development is understood to be people centred We have a special concern with cultural social and economic dimensions where individuals can develop together as a society whilst at the same time individual and organizational activities can be implemented without destroying the present diversity and complexity of the ecological system where we live Taking into account these concerns this book looks to cover issues related to the management for sustainable development in a context where organizations are continually facing high challenges for what concerns the items related to amongst others the re use recycling waste reduction add value low costs and time of production sustainable behaviour not only in an environmental perspective but also in an organizational perspective Today s organizations can no longer develop their practices based in the existent paradigms On the contrary it is necessary to completely break from these paradigms creating a total change of mentality in the way we manage the organizational activities Taking into account this reality managing for a sustainable development appears as a management philosophy focused in productivity improvement considering different kinds of goals such as biological economic and social systems goals Conscious of this reality this book contributes to the exchange of experiences and perspectives about the state of research related to the management for a sustainable development as well as the future direction of this research field It looks to provide a support to academics and researchers as well as those operating in the management field and who need to deal with policies and strategies related to sustainable development issues      The Global Digital Divides James B. Pick, Avijit Sarkar, 2015-04-15 This book analyzes extensive data on the world's rapidly changing and growing access to use and geographies of information and communications technologies. It studies not only the spatial differences in technology usage worldwide but also examines digital differences in the major world nations of China, India, the United States, and Japan at the state and provincial levels. At the global level, factors such as education, innovation, judicial independence, and investment are important to explaining differences in the adoption and use of technology. The country studies corroborate consistent determinants for technology usage for education, urban location, economic prosperity, and infrastructure but also reveal unique determinants such as social capital in the United States and India, exports in China, and working age population and patents in Japan. Spatial patterns are revealed that indicate clusters of high and low technology use for various nations around the world, the countries of Africa, and for individual states/provinces within nations. Based on theory, novel findings, and phenomena that have remained largely unreported, the book considers the future of the worldwide digital divides, the policy role of governments, and the challenges of leadership      North Korea Hazel Smith, 2015-04-06 In this historically grounded, richly empirical study of social and economic transformation in North Korea, Hazel Smith evaluates the marketization from below that followed the devastating famine of the early 1990s, estimated to be the cause of nearly one million fatalities. Smith shows how the end of the Cold War in Europe and the famine brought radical social change to all of North Korean society. This major new study analyses how marketization transformed the interests, expectations, and values of the entire society, including Party members, the military, women and men, the young, and the elderly. Smith shows how the daily life of North Koreans has become alienated from the daily pronouncements of the North Korean government. Challenging stereotypes of twenty-five million North Koreans as mere bystanders in history, Smith argues that North Koreans are neither victims nor villains but active agents of their own destiny      Integrated Organic Farming

Systems: Approach for Efficient Food Production and Environmental Sustainability Subhash Babu, Sanjay Singh Rathore, Vinod Kumar Singh, Raghavendra Singh, 2023-10-24 Researchers and policy planners are in search of a solution to address the twin challenges of maximizing agricultural production while maintaining/improving ecosystem sustainability. Enhancing farm productivity is needed in certain regions of the world to satisfy local food consumption and farmers' needs. Linear economy-based input-intensive conventional agriculture (CAPS) has increased production output but has not made agriculture more sustainable. Henceforth, a farming system that aims to reduce the adverse impact on the environment as well as enhance agricultural productivity by reducing environmental footprint and improving soil health and economic wellbeing is needed in the present day. Integrated organic farming systems (IOFS) involve residue recycling, bio-intensive cropping, high-tech horticulture, mushroom, dairy, poultry, fishery, apiculture, etc. can improve the ecosystem health and augment the income and livelihood security of the growers. Worldwide IOFS are gaining popularity due to improved ecosystem services and improving farm productivity and livelihood security Hence IOFS a circular economy based reuse recycle repair agricultural production system can be alternatives to energy intensive inputs based on CAPS Hence there is an urgent need to select suitable IOFS models with proper resource optimization for productivity maximization and better ecosystem sustainability Undoubtedly IOFS reduces energy use from synthetic agrochemicals but food production in IOFS is highly dependent on fossil fuel energy that must be addressed urgently Despite the enormous positive outlooks there are several challenges in the adoption of IOFS models The IOFS is a multiproduct oriented production system that needs multi specialties and marketing Capacity building and infrastructure development are also great challenges in adopting IOFS Moreover the development of IOFS models is highly individualistic and location specific production systems need proper resource optimization and characterization Hence the development of site specific IOFS models to maintain food quality with productivity improvement is a genuine issue to the researchers which needs to be addressed Papers original research review letter to the editors spanning across the discipline related to the IOFS development in sustainable ways are encouraged for inclusion in this research topic Papers should explicitly cover ecosystem restoration farm productivity and profitability and could have a specific focus on the following areas the IOFS models for enhancing productivity and environmental quality through an integrated management approach aiming at the maximization of use efficiencies the management of biomass waste to restore the soil fertility and ecosystem services the effect of integrated management practices on greenhouse gas emissions and energy use Critical approaches for climate smart food production systems

Simmonds, 2017-08-15 Our relationships with marine mammals are complex We have used them as resources and in some places this remains the case viewed them as competitors and culled them again ongoing in some localities been so captivated and intrigued by them that we have taken them into captivity for our entertainment and developed a lucrative eco tourism activity focused on them in many nations When we first envisaged this special topic we had two overarching aims Firstly we hoped to generate critical evaluation of some of our relationships with these animals Secondly we hoped to attract knowledgeable commentators and experts who might not traditionally publish in the peer reviewed literature We were also asking ourselves a question about what responsibility mankind might have to marine mammals on our rapidly changing planet The answer to the question can or should humans have responsibility for the lives of marine mammals when they are affected by our activities is in our opinion yes and the logical progression from this question is to direct research and effort to understand and optimise the actions reactions and responses that mankind may be able to take We hope that the papers in this special issue bring some illumination to a small selection of topics under this much wider topic area and prove to be informative and stimulating
