Instructional Procedures:

NOTE: This lesson may take more than one class period to complete.

SESSION ONE

1. When the students enter the classroom have them rearrange the desks into a circle.
2. Once students are settled into their seats, hand out a photocopy to each student of the story “Podhus & Anwar” from the Juicio Great Books textbook (Book One). While you are doing so, ask them to take out a writing utensil and place it on their desk.
3. Join the students in the circle (with your teacher’s manual) after you have handed out all the copies of “Podhus & Anwar.” Explain that today, they will be reading a story about two brothers who love each other very much, but have a terrible argument.
4. Before you actually start reading, ask the students why do brothers and sisters sometimes fight, even though they love each other? Ask them to explain their answers.
5. This is purely a discussion—you are merely the facilitator here. Join them as another participant in the conversation, not as the teacher. Be sure to follow the students as they discuss and make contributions to the questions you have posed to them. If it does not come up in the students’ conversation, ask them whether they believe siblings act out sometimes because they are bored, or want to do something alone rather than together? This is particularly relevant
