1. What is the population density in the most densely populated areas of the world?
2. What is the population density in the least densely populated areas of the world?
3. What is the population density in the most densely populated areas of the world?
4. What is the population density in the least densely populated areas of the world?

Population Density and Distribution

Some areas of the world are densely populated (crowded), with many people. Some areas are sparsely populated (empty), with few people.

Factors influence where people live.

Physical factors (climate, relief, accessibility) and human factors (economic activities and services, environment) influence where people live.

Population density is the number of people living in a given area. It is calculated by dividing the total population by the total area.

Population density is measured in people per square kilometre (ppsqkm) or people per square mile (ppsqmi).
