These percentile norms are based on the AIMSweb national norms for kindergarten through Grade 5. (For details, see AIMSweb National Norms Technical Documentation at www.aimsweb.com, under Research Studies and Information on the Research Norms.) The rate of improvement (ROE) norm point per student was calculated for each student in the norm sample for each of three seasonal fall-winter, winter-spring, and fall-spring. An ROE growth percentile indicates the percentage of students in the norm sample with an ROE score below a given value.

Students' average rate of improvement can differ depending on their initial performance level (e.g., in the fall for a fall-spring ROE). Therefore, the ROE growth norms were constructed based on four performance levels: Very Low (20%–40% percentile), Low (40%–50% percentile), Average (50%–70% percentile), High (70%–80% percentile), and Very High (80%–90% percentile). The relationship of ROE to error score level and time of year (fall-winter or winter-spring or fall-spring) is described in the AIMSweb ROE Growth Norm Guide, located on the Norms page (see the AIMSweb page).

To find a student's ROE growth percentile, go to the section for the student's grade and select winter-fall, and then identify the column for the comparison interval (fall-winter, winter-spring, or fall-spring). Then, find the student's ROE in the norm column, and then read across the row to find the corresponding ROE growth percentile. For example, if a Grade 3 student obtained a fall to winter score of the 10th percentile (LWR), then this student's fall-spring ROE of 3 fall percentiles in the 70th percentile.
