INSPECTION OF COMPONENTS

The following information lists the possible defects and indicates the main items which may require replacement. The inspection requirements listed are the minimum advisable.

If any part in a mated assembly is damaged or worn, the complete assembly must be renewed. The following items must be considered as mated parts.

HEAD AND ROTOR ASSEMBLY
ROLLERS AND SHOES
ADVANCE PISTON AND BODY
LATCH VALVE AND BODY
CAM RING AND SCROLL PLATES
DRIVE SHAFT HOUSING AND BUSH

1. Check for damage to internal and external threads, especially on the transfer and distributor rotor, hydraulic head, studs, inlet and outlet connections.

or distorted or fractured springs. Ensure that all springs quoted in the Parts List for the particular pump are present. In cases of fouling or malfunctioning, ensure the correct springs are fitted.

2. Check for any signs of scoring, wear or corrosion to machined surfaces, including the pump body and bush, drive shaft, rear bearing, hydraulic head bore, cam ring, scroll plates, and plates, auto-advance device location and end plate locating face.

4. When fitting new 'O' rings and oil seals, care must be taken to use protection caps, etc. to avoid damage. Inspection of seals after assembly is recommended. Internal seals should be dipped in clean test oil prior to being assembled, external seals should be lightly coated with grease.

5. Inspect for wear and damage to drive shafts, splines and associated parts. If the thrust faces of the housing are worn, check the drive shaft and float.

6. Inspect for wear and scoring of all mechanical governor linkages, shafts, pivot points, arms and weights.

7. Inspect for pitted, scratched, worn, corroded or otherwise damaged pump plungers and their mated bores.

NOTE: Great care must be taken with pump plungers and bores.

Plungers must only be removed from the bore if there is a need to inspect them and then only for the short time required for inspection. Ensure that each plunger is correctly replaced in the end of the bore from which it came. Plungers and bores must be cleaned with clean test oil and assembled wet. The plungers should be retained in the bore of the rotor with the plastic retainer, C.A.V. Part No. 7104-02, or with suitable synthetic rubber tubing.

The rotor must be assembled to the hydraulic head and the complete assembly immersed in a covered bath of clean test oil until required for assembly.

8. Examine the transfer pump for chip-pist, broken or worn transfer pump blades. The blades are not interchangeable, and replacement blades MUST be of the same type.

9. Inspect for damage to rollers and shoes. Examine roller surfaces and check for free rotation in shoes. Roller and shoe assemblies must be kept together.

10. Inspect all small orifices for blockage, e.g., delivery valve bodies, latch valve, head locating fitting and clear any restriction with dry compressed air.
