Playground Safety at School

It's summer and playground safety at your preschool is most important. Setting playground rules and monitoring children as they play isn't enough to ensure your students' safety on the playground. You and your class should check to make sure your school's playground equipment, and the area surrounding it, are also "child safe."

Purpose: To help you and your students monitor playground safety.

Materials for Playground Safety Checklist (HTML | PDF): Rulers, meter sticks, or other measuring tools; yarn, scissors, construction paper; tape, markers, and crayons.

Preparation: Make one chart-sized copy of the "Playground Safety Checklist" to use with the whole class and copies of the checklist to distribute to small groups of students.

Procedure: Talk to students about the things that make them safe on the playground. The discussion may include safety rules for playing with others and using the playground equipment; an adult is always watching and ready to help, etc.

Place the "Playground Safety Checklist" on a bulletin board and discuss each point. Use rulers and meter sticks to illustrate each of the important dimensions in the checklist. As a class, create "measuring sticks" of yarn or construction paper strips for each of these dimensions: 12 inches, 6 feet, 9 feet, 30 inches, 3.5 inches, 9 inches.

Assign groups of students different points from the checklist to look for on the playground. Distribute the corresponding measuring tools to each group.

Help students use the tools to check their playground equipment. Come back together as a
