Management should be very transparent about interdependencies with other projects. It is particularly important in the engineering phase where technical interdependencies can result in hardware completion, software completion, or testing that was planned off with us. We have to communicate to the project the interdependencies for one or more of the following reasons:

- designed to increase the recycling rate
- encourage the responsible behavior of the government management
- control the government's attitude on private business
- protect the interests of consumers
- protect the status of environmentalists in the business

These classes of digital signatures conform with Canadian standards.
