Given:

Equilibrium(s):

Equilibrium: Complete the following statements for your equilibrium. Consider one of the systems as "dominating," highlighting, bolding, or placing your subject in a different color.

If the dominant (country) increases, the interest rate (dominant variable) has then will (increase or decrease) to reach the new equilibrium.

If the dominant (country) decreases, the rate of the (dominant variable) will (increase or decrease) to reach the new equilibrium.

If the dominant (country) increases, the rate of the (dominant variable) will (increase or decrease) to reach the new equilibrium.

If the dominant (country) decreases, the rate of the (dominant variable) will (increase or decrease) to reach the new equilibrium.

Answer: The interest rate has not changed as the rate has not. The equilibrium has changed (decreased and a decrease) only in the long-run equilibrium. The rate of the dominant variable has not changed.

Now fill in the following table, as you work through the questions:
