Science, Reading, and Renaissance Literature Elizabeth Spiller, 2004-05-27 Science Reading and Renaissance Literature brings together key works in early modern science and imaginative literature from the anatomy of William Harvey and the experimentalism of William Gilbert to the fictions of Philip Sidney Edmund Spenser and Margaret Cavendish The book documents how what have become our two cultures of belief define themselves through a shared aesthetics that understands knowledge as an act of making Within this framework literary texts gain substance and intelligibility by being considered as instances of early modern knowledge production At the same time early modern science maintains strong affiliations with poetry because it understands art as a basis for producing knowledge In identifying these interconnections between literature and science this book contributes to scholarship in literary history history of reading and the book science studies and the history of academic disciplines

Visions of Cell Biology Karl S. Matlin, Jane Maienschein, Manfred D. Laubichler, 2018-01-19

Although modern cell biology is often considered to have arisen following World War II in tandem with certain technological and methodological advances in particular the electron microscope and cell fractionation its origins actually date to the 1830s and the development of cytology the scientific study of cells By 1924 with the publication of Edmund Vincent Cowdry's General Cytology the discipline had stretched beyond the bounds of purely microscopic observation to include the chemical physical and genetic analysis of cells Inspired by Cowdry's classic watershed work this book collects contributions from cell biologists historians and philosophers of science to explore the history and current status of cell biology Despite extraordinary advances in describing both the structure and function of cells cell biology tends to be overshadowed by molecular biology a field that developed contemporaneously This book remedies that unjust disparity through an investigation of cell biology's evolution and its role in pushing forward the boundaries of biological understanding Contributors show that modern concepts of cell organization mechanistic explanations epigenetics molecular thinking and even computational approaches all can be placed on the continuum of cell studies from cytology to cell biology and beyond The first book in the series Convening Science Discovery at the Marine Biological Laboratory Visions of Cell Biology sheds new light on a century of cellular discovery

Eleanor Rigby Zamir Osorov, 2014-06-18 This novel is as a keepsake It comes to us from times irreversible when the Kyrgyz Republic was still solidly embedded in the USSR and few people dared to dream about an independent future For most Kyrgyz contacts with the West were limited to the one way traffic of Beatles cassettes brought about by Soviet soldiers serving in Eastern Europe In those late seventies early eighties a period of stability in Soviet history the events of this story take place Four students experimenting with telepathy turn upside down their home village when one of them fixes in his dream a date with an English girl In expectation of her arrival the students agitate the whole population to tidy up their houses the streets and in the meantime their morality Kyrgyz tradition prescribes hospitality but the isolated village lacks of many elementary conveniences By depicting the struggle with the bureaucratic authorities which the students have to fight in order to improve the life circumstances the writer shows the defects of the political system The novel is a cultural critique a profound complaint against the mentality of inertness fostered throughout decades of Soviet rule Though the students are oriented to the West they love their homeland and keep hoping for a better future Now that reality has surpassed all dreams and Kyrgyzstan has become a democratic republic people ardently try to get rid of the past Contacts with the West flourish in the form of international organisations which aim to develop a civil society in Central Asia As a journalist the author is watching the changes in his country attentively His novel was an invitation for the West to come but the story doesn't end with it We can expect a following up since these times of transformation are fascinating for all who are interested in the young republics of the former USSR The editor Kirsten Verpaalen anthropologist

Haunting Biology Emma Kowal, 2023-10-13 In Haunting Biology Emma Kowal recounts the troubled history of Western biological studies of Indigenous Australians and asks how we now might see contemporary genomics especially that conducted by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander scientists Kowal illustrates how the material persistence of samples over decades and centuries folds together the fates of different scientific methodologies Blood bones hair comparative anatomy human biology physiology and anthropological genetics all haunt each other across time and space together with the many racial theories they produced and sustained The stories Kowal tells feature a variety of ghostly presences a dead anatomist a fetishized piece of hair hidden away in a war trunk and an elusive white Indigenous person By linking this history to contemporary genomics and twenty first century Indigeneity Kowal outlines the fraught complexities perils and potentials of studying Indigenous biological difference in the twenty first century

Fables and Futures George Estreich, 2025-05-27 How new biomedical technologies from prenatal testing to gene editing techniques require us to imagine who counts as human and what it means to belong From next generation prenatal tests to virtual children to the genome editing tool CRISPR Cas9 new biotechnologies grant us unprecedented power to predict and shape future people That power implies a question about belonging which people which variations will we welcome How will we square new biotech advances with the real but fragile gains for people with disabilities especially when their voices are all but absent from the conversation This book explores that conversation the troubled territory where biotechnology and disability meet In it George Estreich an award winning poet and memoirist and the father of a young woman with Down syndrome delves into popular representations of cutting edge biotech websites advertising next generation prenatal tests feature articles on three parent IVF a scientist's memoir of constructing a semisynthetic cell and more As Estreich shows each new application of biotechnology is accompanied by a persuasive story one that minimizes downsides and promises enormous benefits In this story people with disabilities are both invisible and essential a key promise of new technologies is that disability will be repaired or prevented In chapters that blend personal narrative and scholarship Estreich restores disability to our narratives of technology He also considers broader themes the place of people with disabilities in a world built for the able the echoes of eugenic history in the genomic present and the equation of intellect and human value Examining the stories we tell ourselves the fables already creating our futures Estreich argues that given biotech that can select and shape who we are we need to imagine as broadly as possible what it means to belong

Marx at 200 Gilbert Faccarello, Heinz D. Reading and Experience: A Philosophical Investigation Alexander Samely, 2024-06-10 This text is the first comprehensive attempt in decades to integrate reading into the philosophical discussion of the synthesis of experience more generally It offers a comprehensive critique of three disciplinary approaches to reading philosophical literary and empirical neuroscientific while developing an innovative and unifying phenomenological account It discusses texts from a variety of contemporary and historical contexts It is inclusive treating non fiction alongside fiction literary art alongside everyday texts and narrative alongside thematic discourse It addresses all reading practices found today casual and unreflective reading close and scholarly reading with re reading the analysis of literary art and sacred text study and memorization In the current intellectual landscape the book is unique in bringing all these aspects together in a philosophically coherent discussion The book provides a critique of philosophical accounts of text meaning and linguistic experience by philosophers from Husserl and Ingarden to Sartre Merleau Ponty Arendt Gadamer and Derrida and examines the positions of contemporary naturalizing phenomenologists such as Varela and Thompson Also treated are neuroscientists such as Dehaene and theorists of consciousness such as Kintsch Flanagan and Dennett Finally this volume engages with psychological linguistic structuralist theory of mind and experiential approaches in literary studies from B hler and Hamburger to Fludernik Herman and Kuzmi ov It appeals to students and researchers working in these fields Books John Millar,1897 The Craft of Thought Mary Jean Carruthers,2000-10-26 The Craft of Thought first published in 1998 is a companion to Mary Carruthers earlier study of memory in medieval culture The Book of Memory This more recent volume examines medieval monastic meditation as a discipline for making thoughts and discusses its influence on literature art and architecture In a process akin to today s creative thinking or cognition this discipline recognises the essential roles of imagination and emotion in meditation Deriving examples from a variety of late antique and medieval sources with excursions into modern architectural memorials this study emphasises meditation as an act of literary composition or invention the techniques of which notably involved both words and making mental pictures for thinking and composing Revolution in Science I. Bernard Cohen,1985 Cohen s exploration seeks to uncover nothing less than the nature of all scientific revolutions the stages by which they occur their time scale specific criteria for determining whether or not there has been a revolution and the creative factors in producing a revolutionary new idea The Evolution of Language W. Tecumseh Fitch,2010-04-01 Language more than anything else is what makes us human It appears that no communication system of equivalent power exists elsewhere in the animal kingdom Any normal human child will learn a language based on rather sparse data in the surrounding world while even the brightest chimpanzee exposed to the same environment will not Why not How and why did language evolve in our species and not in others Since Darwin s theory of evolution questions about the origin of language have generated a rapidly growing scientific literature stretched across a number of disciplines much of it directed at specialist audiences The diversity of perspectives from linguistics anthropology speech science genetics neuroscience and evolutionary biology can be bewildering Tecumseh Fitch cuts through this vast literature bringing together its most important insights to explore one of the biggest unsolved puzzles of human history Theodore Roosevelt and His Library at Sagamore Hill Mark I. West,2022-05-01 President Theodore Roosevelt called himself a book lover and for good reason From his boyhood days in the 1860s to the very end of his life in 1919 Roosevelt had a deep seated passion for reading books Wherever he went he brought books with him Whether he was rounding up cattle on a ranch in North Dakota giving campaign speeches from the back of a train governing the nation from the White House or exploring an uncharted tributary of the Amazon River he always made time to read books Theodore Roosevelt and His Library at Sagamore Hill includes an overview of Roosevelt s life as a reader a discussion of the role that reading particular books played in shaping his life and career and a short history of his personal library The book also provides researchers and others interested in Roosevelt s life with a complete list of Roosevelt s books that are currently located at Sagamore Hill his home in Oyster Bay New York The books in his personal library reflect his love of classic works of literature his interest in history and his fascination with the natural sciences Theodore Roosevelt and His Library at Sagamore Hill concludes with an essay that Roosevelt wrote near the end of his life in which he reflected on his reading habits and commented on some of his favorite books Learning to Divide the World John Willinsky,1998 The barbarian rules by force the cultivated conqueror teaches This maxim from the age of empire hints at the usually hidden connections between education and conquest In Learning to Divide the World John Willinsky brings these correlations to light offering a balanced humane and beautifully written account of the ways that imperialism s educational legacy continues to separate us into black and white east and west primitive and civilized What to Read on Biology William John Dakin,1928 Understanding The Old Man and the Sea Patricia Dunlavy Valenti,2002-07-30 Winner of the 1953 Pulitzer Prize for Fiction and specifically cited by the Swedish Academy when Hemingway received the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1954 The Old Man and the Sea remains one of the author s most beloved works This casebook helps readers interpret and appreciate the thematic concerns of the novel as well as the contextual issues it explores Topic chapters provide information on Cuba including its natural geography sociopolitical history and the ethnic background of its people A wide variety of primary documents such as interviews and articles along with charts and illustrations establish a framework for interdisciplinary study One chapter with particular appeal to students deals with Hemingway s treatment of the ethos and issues of baseball and sports Included are documents pertaining to the Cuban league the legendary Joe DiMaggio and a historical perspective of baseball offered by the Director of Research at the Cooperstown Baseball Hall of Fame in an original interview conducted for this book The casebook is completed with contemporary issues suggestions for oral and written exploration of the novel and suggested further readings
