Mohanbir S. Sawhney, 2017 Rockwell Automation's Allen Bradley division was considering how to deal with the threat posed by national distributors in the maintenance repair and overhaul MRO business for its industrial automation products National distributors were consolidating the MRO distribution channel offering national account customers an integrated multichannel solution for their MRO needs Allen Bradley had traditionally served its customers through high touch high value added local distributors but this channel was inadequate for the demands of large MRO customers An effort by Allen Bradley and other manufacturers to create an industry wide electronic sourcing consortium called SourceAlliance.com had failed Now the company had to choose between redesigning its traditional channel by creating a virtual network of local distributors striking an alliance with a national distributor or withdrawing from the MRO market It had to contend with difficult channel conflict issues in choosing a channel strategy To analyze the competitive strategy of a company serving the MRO market
