Reaching Outward and Upward Ian MacPherson, 2012 Teaching research community engagement and explorations in ways of knowing Uvic fifty years on International Students Negotiating Higher Education Silvia Sovic, Margo Blythman, 2012 This insightful book offers a critical stance on contemporary views of international students and challenges the way those involved address the important issues at hand Interpolation for Normal Bundles of General Curves Atanas Atanasov, Eric Larson, David Yang, 2019-02-21 Given n general points $p_1, p_2, \dots, p_n$ in $\mathbb{P}^r$ it is natural to ask when there exists a curve $C \subset \mathbb{P}^r$ of degree d and genus g passing through $p_1, p_2, \dots, p_n$. In this paper the authors give a complete answer to this question for curves C with nonspecial hyperplane section. This result is a consequence of our main theorem which states that the normal bundle N_C of a general nonspecial curve of degree d and genus g in $\mathbb{P}^r$ with $d \geq g + r$ has the property of interpolation, i.e. that for a general effective divisor D of any degree on C either $H^0(N_C(D)) > 0$ or $H^1(N_C(D)) = 0$ with exactly three exceptions. Handbook of Systems Engineering and Risk Management in Control Systems, Communication, Space Technology, Missile, Security and Defense Operations Anna M. Doro-on, 2022-09-27 This book provides multifaceted components and full practical perspectives of systems engineering and risk management in security and defense operations with a focus on infrastructure and manpower control systems, missile design, space technology, satellites, intercontinental ballistic missiles, and space security. While there are many existing selections of systems engineering and risk management textbooks, there is no existing work that connects systems engineering and risk management concepts to solidify its usability in the entire security and defense actions. With this book, Dr. Anna M. Doro-on rectifies the current imbalance. She provides a comprehensive overview of systems engineering and risk management before moving to deeper practical engineering principles integrated with newly developed concepts and examples based on industry and government methodologies. The chapters also cover related points including design principles for defeating and deactivating improvised explosive devices and land mines and security measures against kinds of threats. The book is designed for systems engineers in practice, political risk professionals, managers, policy makers, engineers in other engineering fields, scientists, decision makers in industry and government, and to serve as a reference work in systems engineering and risk management courses with focus on security and defense operations. Equivalence Amanda L. Golbeck, 2017-04-28 Equivalence Elizabeth L. Scott at Berkeley is the compelling story of one pioneering statistician's relentless twenty-year effort to promote the status of women in academe and science. Part biography and part microhistory, the book provides the context and background to understand Scott's masterfulness at using statistics to help solve societal problems. In addition to being one of the first researchers to work at the interface of astronomy and statistics and an early practitioner of statistics using high-speed computers, Scott worked on an impressively broad range of questions in science, from whether cloud seeding actually works to whether ozone depletion causes skin cancer. Later in her career, Scott became swept up in the academic women's movement. She used her well-developed scientific research skills together with the advocacy skills she had honed in such activities as raising funds for Martin Luther King Jr and keeping Free Speech Movement students out of jail toward policy making that would improve the condition of the academic workforce for women The book invites the reader into Scott s universe a window of inspiration made possible by the fact that she saved and dated every piece of paper that came across her desk Culture and Human-Robot
