

Research Paper

Researching and expressing other's points of view on a topic, as well as incorporating your insights and ideas

Long in length, at least 8 pages

Requires comprehensive understanding of a topic by researching it thoroughly

Familiarity required with research writings associated with a chosen topic

Helps build writers knowledge of a topic

The writer compares various pieces of information on a topic and then presents a cumulative overview of the findings

Different flavors of Research Papers Include but are not limited to: compare and contrast, argumentative, analytical, cause and effect, and subject-bases. The last is the most common. A subject or topic is chosen and then that topic is researched and written about.

After researching a topic thoroughly, the writer compiles and evaluates the information. The writer then restructures and presents the topic from their point of view, incorporating citations from compiled research to back up their analysis.

Essay

Usually your point of view

Short in length with an average of 5 paragraphs

Does not necessarily require a comprehensive understanding of a particular topic

Familiarity may or may not be required with other research or writing

Helps build writers writing skills

The writer hones their writing skills by presenting their thoughts in a logical and coherent manner

Different flavors of Essays include but are not limited to: academic, narrative, and philosophical. The academic essay is common at the collegiate level. This type of essay commonly includes a literature review. The literature review is an evaluation of information that is read. It should describe, summarize, evaluate and clarify the chosen piece.

In an essay the writer puts their thoughts on paper. Thought is given to the purpose of the writing and what type of essay it is. The perspective audience is also considered. The writing should be well-organized, coherent and supported by appropriate facts and examples.

Writing, Reading, and Understanding in Modern Health Sciences Milos Jenicek,2017-07-27 Medical articles are one of the main vehicles of knowledge translation and evidence communication in the health sciences Their correct structure and style alone are no longer enough to convey a clear understanding of the intended message Readers must be able to understand the very essence of the article message That is the purpose of this book Writing Reading and Understanding in Modern Health Sciences Medical Articles and Other Forms of Communication will help the authors of medical articles communicate more effectively in today s practice and health research environment It explores the most effective practices for communicating using three main medical literature formats through scientific articles articles where the subject is not based on the practice of the scientific method and business reports Describing how to think beyond the prevailing IMRAD article format this book focuses on the nature content domains of thought and meanings of medical articles The ideas and underlying propositions in this book are complementary to specific requirements appropriate for each type of medical journal After reading this book you will better understand How to write what is considered the most important type of medical article the research based medical article How to write an evidence based argumentative medical article The challenges of clinical case reporting The general framework of medical and research ethics Classification of medical articles and their underlying studies from the causal standpoint Supplying you with the understanding required to write more effective medical articles the book includes details about essay type articles research based articles thesis as introduction sections definitions as part of the material and methods sections modern argumentation and critical thinking underlying results and their discussion and conclusions about them English for College Freshmen , The End of Composition Studies David W Smit,2007-03-29 Setting forth an innovative new model for what it means to be a writing teacher in the era of writing across the curriculum The End of Composition Studies urges a reconceptualization of graduate work in rhetoric and composition systematically critiques the limitations of current pedagogical practices at the postsecondary level and proposes a reorganization of all academic units David W Smit calls into question two major assumptions of the field that writing is a universal ability and that college level writing is foundational to advanced learning Instead Smit holds writing involves a wide range of knowledge and skill that cannot be learned solely in writing classes but must be acquired by immersion in various discourse communities in and out of academic settings The End of Composition Studies provides a compelling rhetoric and rationale for eliminating the field and reenvisioning the profession as truly interdisciplinary a change that is necessary in order to fulfill the needs and demands of students instructors administrators and our democratic society
