The Growing Gap in Life Expectancy by Income National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Mathematical Sciences and Their Applications, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, Committee on the Long-Run Macroeconomic Effects of the Aging U.S. Population--Phase II,2015-09-17 The U S population is aging Social Security projections suggest that between 2013 and 2050 the population aged 65 and over will almost double from 45 million to 86 million One key driver of population aging is ongoing increases in life expectancy Average U S life expectancy was 67 years for males and 73 years for females five decades ago the averages are now 76 and 81 respectively It has long been the case that better educated higher income people enjoy longer life expectancies than less educated lower income people The causes include early life conditions behavioral factors such as nutrition exercise and smoking behaviors stress and access to health care services all of which can vary across education and income Our major entitlement programs Medicare Medicaid Social Security and Supplemental Security Income have come to deliver disproportionately larger lifetime benefits to higher income people because on average they are increasingly collecting those benefits over more years than others This report studies the impact the growing gap in life expectancy has on the present value of lifetime benefits that people with higher or lower earnings will receive from major entitlement programs The analysis presented in The Growing Gap in Life Expectancy by Income goes beyond an examination of the existing literature by providing the first comprehensive estimates of how lifetime benefits are affected by the changing distribution of life expectancy The report also explores from a lifetime benefit perspective how the growing gap in longevity affects traditional policy analyses of reforms to the nation s leading entitlement programs This in depth analysis of the economic impacts of the longevity gap will inform debate and assist decision makers economists and researchers

The Politics of Green Transformations Ian Scoones, Melissa Leach, Peter Newell, 2015-01-09

Multiple green transformations are required if humanity is to live sustainably on planet Earth Recalling past transformations this book examines what makes the current challenge different and especially urgent It examines how green transformations must take place in the context of the particular moments of capitalist development and in relation to particular alliances The role of the state is emphasised both in terms of the type of incentives required to make green transformations politically feasible and the way states must take a developmental role in financing innovation and technology for green transformations The book also highlights the role of citizens as innovators entrepreneurs green consumers and members of social movements Green transformations must be both top down involving elite alliances between states and business but also bottom up pushed by grassroots innovators and entrepreneurs and part of wider mobilisations among civil society The chapters in the book draw on international examples to emphasise how contexts matter in shaping pathways to sustainability Written by experts in the field this book will be of great interest to researchers and students in environmental studies international relations political science development studies geography and anthropology as well as policymakers and practitioners concerned with sustainability

Taylor's 7th Teaching and Learning Conference 2014 Proceedings Siew Fun

Tang, Loshinikarasi Logonnathan, 2015-06-01 These conference proceedings showcase a rich and practical exchange of approaches and vital evidence based practices taking place around the world They clarify the complex challenges involved in bringing about a holistic educational environment in schools and institutes of higher learning that fosters greater understanding and offer valuable insights on how to avoid the pitfalls that come with rolling out holistic approaches to education To do so the proceedings focus on the subthemes Support and Development Mobility and Diversity and Networking and Collaboration in Holistic Education Primary Science Education in East Asia Yew-Jin Lee, Jason Tan, 2018-09-26 This edited volume is a state of the art comparison of primary science education across six East Asian regions namely the People's Republic of China Republic of Korea Republic of China Hong Kong SAR Japan and Singapore While news of educational policies classroom teaching assessment and other educational innovations here often surface in the international media this book brings together for the first time relevant information regarding educational systems and strategies in primary science in East Asia Above all it is a readable yet comprehensive survey readers would have an accurate sense of what has been accomplished what has not worked so well and what remains to be done Invited experts in comparative education research and or science education also provide commentary by discussing common themes across the six regions These types of critical synoptic reviews add much value by enabling readers to understand broad commonalities and help synthesize what must surely be a bewildering amount of very interesting albeit confusing body of facts issues and policies Education in East Asia holds many lessons both positive and negative to offer to the rest of the world to which this volume is a timely contribution to the literature Bituminous Mixtures and Pavements VI A. Nikolaidis, 2015-07-28 Bituminous Mixtures and Pavements contains 113 accepted papers from the 6th International Conference Bituminous Mixtures and Pavements 6th ICONFBMP Thessaloniki Greece 10 12 June 2015 The 6th ICONFBMP is organized every four years by the Highway Engineering Laboratory of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki Greece in conjunction with Rare Earth Frontiers Julie M. Klinger, 2018-01-15 Rare Earth Frontiers is a work of human geography that serves to demystify the powerful elements that make possible the miniaturization of electronics green energy and medical technologies and essential telecommunications and defense systems Julie Michelle Klinger draws attention to the fact that the rare earths we rely on most are as common as copper or lead and this means the implications of their extraction are global Klinger excavates the rich historical origins and ongoing ramifications of the quest to mine rare earths in ever more impossible places Klinger writes about the devastating damage to lives and the environment caused by the exploitation of rare earths She demonstrates in human terms how scarcity myths have been conscripted into diverse geopolitical campaigns that use rare earth mining as a pretext to capture spaces that have historically fallen beyond the grasp of centralized power These include legally and logistically forbidding locations in the Amazon Greenland and Afghanistan and on the Moon Drawing on ethnographic archival and interview data gathered in local languages and offering possible solutions to the problems it documents this book examines the production of the rare earth frontier as a place a concept and a zone of contestation sacrifice and transformation Learning from Animations in Science Education Len Unsworth, 2020-11-10 This book examines educational semiotics and the representation of knowledge in school science It discusses the strategic integration of animation in science education It explores how learning through the creation of science animations takes place as well as how animation can be used in assessing student s science learning Science education animations are ubiquitous in a variety of different online sites including perhaps the most popularly accessed YouTube site and are also routinely included as digital augmentations to science textbooks They are popular with students and teachers and are a prominent feature of contemporary science teaching The proliferation of various kinds of science animations and the ready accessibility of sophisticated resources for creating them have emphasized the importance of research into various areas the nature of the semiotic construction of knowledge in the animation design the development of critical interpretation of available animations the strategic selection and use of animations to optimize student learning student creation of science animations and using animation in assessing student science learning This book brings together new developments in these research agendas to further multidisciplinary perspectives on research to enhance the design and pedagogic use of animation in school science education Chapter 1 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer.com
