Author: Nekisa Mahzad

I have been a student at California State University Channel Islands (CI) for 5 semesters, and over the course of my stay I have grown and learned more than I thought possible. I came to this school from Moorpark Community College already knowing that I wanted to be an English teacher; I had taken numerous English courses and though I knew exactly what I was headed for-was I ever wrong. Going through the English program has taught me so much more than stuff about literature and language, it has taught me how to be me. I have learned here how to write and express myself, how to think for myself, and how to find the answers to the things that I don't know. Most importantly I have learned how important literature and language are.

When I started at CI, I thought I was going to spend the next 3 years reading classics, discussing them and then writing about them. That was what I did in community college English courses, so I didn't think it would be much different here. On the surface, to an outsider, I am sure that this is what it appears that C.I. English majors do. In most all my classes I did read, discuss, and write papers; however, I quickly found out that that there was so much more to it. One specific experience I had while at C.I. really shows how integrated this learning is. Instead of writing a paper for my final project in Perspectives of Multicultural Literature (ENGL 449), I decided with a friend to venture to an Indian reservation and compare it to a book we read by Sherman Alexie. We had a great time and we learned so much more that we ever could have done from writing a paper. The opportunity to do that showed me that there are so many ways that one can learn that are both fun and educational.

The English courses also taught me how powerful the written word and language can be. Words tell so much more than a story. Stories tell about life and the human condition, they bring up the past and people and cultures that are long gone. Literature teaches about the self and the world surrounding the self. From these classes I learned about the world, its people and its history; through literature I learned how we as humans are all related. By writing about what we learn and/or what we believe, we are learning how to express ourselves.

I know that my ability to write and express my ideas, thoughts and knowledge has grown stronger each semester. I have always struggled to put my thoughts on paper in a manner that is coherent and correct according to assignments. I can remember being told numerous times in community college to "organize your based on Rogers core conditions provides a strong theoretical basis for students to understand reflective practice The use of questions and examples throughout are engaging and will be useful for students and tutors alike I think this book will be excellent for all healthcare workers students and qualified alike Whilst it is aimed at nurses the principles apply across healthcare I think it is a real gem and certainly the best book I have read about reflective practice Dr Rosie Stenhouse Nursing Studies University of Edinburgh UK Developing Portfolios for Learning and Assessment Val Klenowski,2002 Drawing on the author s own experience of using and researching student portfolios this book analyses the implications for the development of the portfolio for assessment The End of Composition Studies David W Smit,2007-03-29 Setting forth an innovative new model for what it means to be a writing teacher in the era of writing across the curriculum The End of Composition Studies urges a reconceptualization of graduate work in rhetoric and composition systematically critiques the limitations of current pedagogical practices at the postsecondary level and proposes a reorganization of all academic units David W Smit calls into question two major assumptions of the field that writing is a universal ability and that college level writing is foundational to advanced learning Instead Smit holds writing involves a wide range of knowledge and skill that cannot be learned solely in writing classes but must be acquired by immersion in various discourse communities in and out of academic settings The End of Composition Studies provides a compelling rhetoric and rationale for eliminating the field and reenvisioning the profession as truly interdisciplinary a change that is necessary in order to fulfill the needs and demands of students instructors administrators and our democratic society Visual Writing Alex Baratta,2010-07-12 Considering the fact that the academic essay continues to be widely used as an assessment tool within education there is a need for students to develop their skills in this area However it is often the case that students perceive instruction in academic writing if it is offered at all as boring This book addresses these two issues First the book can be used by students themselves even in the absence of academic writing classes as a self help guide from which they can develop their knowledge of academic writing and subsequent proficiency Second by discussing the components of academic writing in terms such as film which are familiar to today s generation students are enabled to relate to the material better and see what might have been perceived as dull from a brand new perspective Visual learners in particular will enjoy the analogous link between films and essays and students today are arguably more visually literate than previous generations being exposed to visuals on a daily basis through text message iconography computer games and the Internet The visual instruction provided in turn helps to facilitate mental visuals in students minds from which their knowledge of essay writing can start to develop Literacy Projects for Student-Centered Classrooms Karrell Hickman,2007-04-18 Meets NCTE and IRA standards offers guidelines for using the student centered approach to literacy instruction and presents four long term research projects that encourage teamwork and creativity Reflective Practice in Nursing Chris Bulman,Sue Schutz,2013-05-06 Reflective Practice is increasingly recognised as an important topic that has the potential to help nurses to develop and learn from their practice This practical and accessible guide uses the latest research and evidence to support the development of skills in reflective practice and provides help and advice on how to get started how to write reflectively and how to continue to use reflective practice in everyday situations This fourth edition of Reflective Practice in Nursing contains new material on mentoring and supervision and on group reflection and includes a new chapter on teaching reflective practice Reflective Practice in Nursing is an indispensable guide for students and practitioners alike who wish to learn more about reflective practice as well as containing essential information for teachers and lecturers A Pocket Style Manual, APA Version Diana Hacker,Nancy Sommers,2015-08-10 Your students need clear complete answers to their questions about grammar research and writing in the social sciences and they often need them at a moment's notice As their teacher you are their greatest resource but you can't be available 24/7 For help with work in class and at home and especially for questions at odd hours students can turn to A Pocket Style Manual APA Version The APA version of A Pocket Style Manual provides help for students writing in disciplines that use APA style psychology sociology economics criminal justice nursing education business and others With a focus on APA conventions and practices examples and models from across the disciplines and guidelines for integrating and documenting a wide variety of sources A Pocket Style Manual APA Version gives concise straightforward and trusted advice for any writing situation

Negotiating Learning and Identity in Higher Education Bongi Bangeni,Rochelle Kapp,2017-09-21 While access to higher education has increased globally student retention has become a major challenge This book analyses various aspects of the learning pathways of black students from a range of disciplinary backgrounds at a relatively elite English medium historically white South African university The students are part of a generation of young black people who have grown up in the new South Africa and are gaining access to higher education in unprecedented numbers Based on two longitudinal case studies Negotiating Learning and Identity in Higher Education makes a contribution to the debates about how to facilitate access and graduation of working class students The longitudinal perspective enabled the students participating in the research to reflect on their transition to university and the stumbling blocks they encountered in their senior years The contributors show that the school to university transition is not linear or universal Students had to negotiate multiple transitions at various times and both resist and absorb institutional disciplinary and home discourses The book describes and analyses the students' ambivalence as they straddle often conflicting discourses within their disciplines within the institution between home and the institution and as they occupy multiple subject positions that are related to the boundaries of place and time Each chapter also describes the ways in which the institution supports and or hinders students' progress explores the implications of its findings for models of support and addresses the issue of what constitutes meaningful access to institutional and disciplinary discourses
