but little disparagement Any willing audience deserves respect Musical examples come from Tin Pan Alley as often as the opera Whether at a jazz club or the concert hall the writer cannot hide his impatience with artists seeking to educate or intimidate Music can be recreation or vocation Does your instrument match your personality or some physical attribute We instantly distinguish a bell a piano and a guitar why not a clarinet flute or violin What does the conductor do A Language of Emotion embraces such matters The relatively imprecise science of Psychology examines music working its magic We all have favorites Is it hype and marketing and peer influence or do our choices make personal statements Music politics religion and social forces are twisted threads in the fabric of civilization Nothing reflects the spirit of an era better than the works of its most creative individuals In most cases they blend smoothly in sequence Monteverdi Beethoven and Stravinsky to name just three clearly got ahead of the curve and helped define the world around them

Education, and Empowerment Lisa Kretz, 2020-10-14 Universities teach courses in ethics but do they teach students how to be ethical in practice Lisa Kretz's Ethics Emotion Education and Empowerment explores the ways that philosophical ethics are currently taught and argues that dominant approaches fail to adequately support ethical action in part because emotions are all too often ignored or repressed in university classrooms In isolation abstract theoretical content fails to motivate The ability to reason through an ethical dilemma does not by itself of necessity impact ethical action Empowered action requires intentional emotional engagement Kretz argues that part of the reason affective pedagogy fails to get sufficient uptake is due to the operations of oppression There is a long history of the reason emotion dualism undermining recognition of the necessary and valuable epistemic roles emotions play in moral life and serving as a political tactic to undermine the experience of oppressed groups This impoverishes ethical pedagogy because it is to the detriment of their ability to teach ethics in a comprehensive way and strips the potential of supporting students to enact their own reflectively held ethical beliefs and values Using the example of the environmental crisis Kretz makes a case for supporting students as engaged activists aware of their capacity to ethically change the world
