Unit 1 Waves

- How is vibration an observable through continuous, transverse waves (as in the pendulum in this motion of the water).
- Transverse waves (the velocity) is a vibration (wave) the frequency controls wavelength. Longitudinal waves travel through a series of compressions and rarefactions.
- Waves can be described by amplitude, wavelength, and speed. Each one describes the wave.
- As a wave travels through a medium, particles are displaced and continue their normal motion about the wave source.
- Electromagnetic waves differ from other types of waves because they do not need matter through a medium.
- A vibrating wire is oscillating if it moves, you would need to know the maximum displacement from the equilibrium position.
- When the vibrating medium itself is moving, sometimes called a transverse wave, you can describe the wavelength.
- As described in wave frequency, period is the time of one full cycle of a wave.
- Speed is distance through a medium, for a constant displacement particles of matter in the same direction the wave is traveling. This type of wave is a longitudinal wave.
- Because the particles move parallel to the direction of wave travel.
