An Educator's Guide to Dual Language Instruction Gayle Westerberg, Leslie Davison, 2016-04-14 This user friendly book is a key resource for teachers and administrators to ensure their school's success in implementing and maintaining a dual language program. Authors Gayle Westerberg and Leslie Davison share their own experiences leading a dual language school, the obstacles they overcame, and the best practices they learned along the way. The book is filled with step by step instructions and strategies you can try immediately, as well as inspirational stories from educators in urban and rural dual language programs across the country. Topics include: Choosing a model for your dual language program and involving all stakeholders in the transition process; Marketing your program effectively to recruit students and staff, including international teachers; Implementing a standards based instructional framework focused on direct vocabulary instruction, extensive reading, and using language in context; Setting proficiency targets and using internal and external assessments to track students' progress; Incorporating technology for a more interactive and engaging language learning experience. You'll also learn how to effectively transition your program through different grade levels and build a collaborative school culture for a strong, long lasting K-12 dual language program. Additional resources are available on the authors' website www.duallanguageinstruction.com.

Schooling by Design Grant Wiggins, Jay McTighe, 2007-07-15 The authors of Understanding by Design share a compelling strategy for creating schools that truly fulfill the central mission of education: to help students become thoughtful, productive, and accomplished at worthy tasks.

The Testing Trap George Hillocks, 2002-04-12 Do statewide assessments really do what they are supposed to do? Through interviews with over three hundred teachers and administrators, Hillocks examines whether state writing tests in Illinois, Kentucky, Oregon, New York, and Texas actually improve students' ability to express their thinking in writing. Ultimately, Hillocks argues that the majority of existing tests actually have a harmful effect on the way students are taught to write. In addition to providing analyses of assessments that do not encourage good writing, The Testing Trap contrasts them to those that do. Concluding with practical procedures for examining and evaluating writing assessments, this book is a provocative and essential read for administrators, teachers, policymakers, parents, and all who care about the education of our children.

Writing in Education Elizabeth Chase, Nancy P. Morabito, Sandra Schamroth Abrams, 2020-08-17 Writing in Education: The Art of Writing for Educators focuses on educators' professional journeys and discoveries about teaching, learning, writing, and self. This book offers insightful discussions about teaching practices, reflective writing, and digital and nondigital representations of meaning. It explores practical matters facing teachers and teacher candidates, such as communicating about one's practice, writing beyond content and page, or conducting classroom observations and maintaining field notes. This volume is divided into three main parts, each of which spotlights a Featured Assignment that examines an area of writing in education. The sample student work that is highlighted in each chapter is designed to support teachers and teacher candidates as they consider the importance and forms of writing as professionals in

The Thinking Crisis T. Ellen Hill,Joel L. Shatzky,2001 The objectives of The Thinking Crisis are to examine the reasons for the decline in the quality of student writing by what is taught and learned in high school to demonstrate the consequences of this decline by examining current student writing in college to compare this writing with student writing of twenty years ago to suggest ways in which this disconnection between what a teacher teaches and what a student needs to learn can be ameliorated We believe that this book is unique in its approach to problems that we see in student writing today in that it neither advocates nor rejects the present pedagogy in the schools but it argues that this pedagogy be properly implemented While many of the ideas advanced today for improving writing are sound they are often misinterpreted and poorly taught We also argue that the lowering of the level of student reading by the general abandonment of classic texts in the curriculum has contributed to the decline in thinking reading and writing
