Brush, Donna M. Wilson, 2014-01-14 First published in 1985 In the mid seventies there was growing concern that early decisions not to study mathematics in high school might be limiting the occupational options available to women As part of a larger program on career development the Career Awareness Division of the Education and Work Group then one of the major organizational units of the National Institute of Education NIE initiated a special research grants program on women and mathematics Research information that would sort out the competing explanations for women's lower rate of participation seemed a useful contribution to debates about possible remedial actions Should there be for example widespread development and implementation of programs designed to reduce mathematics anxiety This volume represents the culmination of a research program with many contributions Improving America's Schools National Research

Council, Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy, 1996-11-15 Reform of American education is largely motivated by concerns about our economic competitiveness and American's standard of living. Yet few if any of the public school reform agendas incorporate economic principles or research findings. Improving America's Schools explores how education and economic research can help produce in the words of Harvard's Dale W. Jorgenson a unified framework for future education reform. This book presents the perspectives of noted experts including Eric A. Hanushek, author of Making Schools Work on creating incentives for improved school and student performance; Under Secretary of Education Marshall S. Smith on the Clinton Administration's reform program; and Rebecca Maynard, University of Pennsylvania, on the education of the disadvantaged. This volume explores these areas: The importance of schooling to labor market success; The prospects for combining school-based management with teacher incentives to gain the best of both approaches; The potential of recent innovations in student achievement testing including new value-added indicators; The economic factors involved in maintaining an adequate stock of effective teachers. The volume also explores why, despite similar standards of living, France, the Netherlands, England, Scotland, and the United States produce different levels of education achievement. Improving America's Schools informs the current debate over school reform with a fresh perspective, examples, and data. This readable volume will be of interest to policymakers, researchers, educators, and education administrators as well as economists and employers; it is also readily accessible to concerned parents and the larger community.

Understanding and Evaluating Educational Research James H. McMillan, Jon F. Wergin, 2002. Understanding and Evaluating Research, third edition, is a supplemental textbook appropriate for all courses in educational research. A reader of this text contains quantitative and qualitative educational research articles from a variety of professional journals. With each article is a sample article analysis and exercises that help students become better consumers of research. The third edition is greatly enhanced by the inclusion of a new chapter on Mixed Method Designs and two mixed method studies; revised and expanded discussion of qualitative methods; more emphasis given to randomized designs; revision of research typology; and features eight new articles.

Monitoring School Performance J. Douglas Willms, 2003-09-02. This work evaluates methods of establishing and monitoring school systems either at the school, district, authority, or state level from a theoretical and practical point of view. The analysis and interpretation of data on.

A Parents' Guide to Grading and Reporting Matt Townsley, Chad Lang, 2023-09-15. Whether resulting from the educational fallout of the COVID-19 global pandemic or merely challenging the status quo, more schools are transitioning their grading practices away from traditional points and percentages and toward 21st-century grading practices such as standards-based and proficiency-based grading. A Parents' Guide to Grading and Reporting Being Clear about What Matters assists parents and guardians in understanding what is involved in 21st-century grading and how to become better partners with educators in efforts to understand students' strengths and areas for improvement.
