Sherry Turkle, a professor of the Social Studies of Technology, has written extensively about the effects of technology on human relationships. "We are increasingly connected to each other", she states, "but oddly more alone; in intimacy, new so lonely" (p. 19). Turkle quotes many stories from her interviews to illustrate her basic argument. In one worrying case, she describes the experience of a woman who goes to interview someone she is interested in employing as a nanny. When the woman arrives at the apartment, she meets the person's flatmate who at the time is texting on her BlackBerry. The woman asks to see the would-be nanny. Rather than get up to knock on this person's door – which is only 15 feet away – the flatmate sends her a text to tell of the woman's arrival. The woman is shocked – as is Turkle – that the flatmate would not simply
