Transitions in Writing , 2018-03-12 Transitions in Writing addresses the experiences of writers as they move between contexts of writing and juggle new and different demands Spelman Miller and Stevenson bring together research by scholars in a range of settings across the world who approach transition from different standpoints Transition is often conceived of as a change in setting coinciding with physical or temporal relocation such as between stages of an educational or professional career However writers also manage more local micro level transitions as they move between genres registers and rhetorical moves to meet the demands of the task The combination of both macro and micro level perspectives on transition offers a novel broad conception of the types of change a writer encounters and illustrates a range of methodological approaches appropriate to exploring such transitions Deeper Learning James A. Bellanca, 2014-11-14 Education authorities from around the globe explore deeper learning a process that promotes higher order thinking reasoning and problem solving to better educate students and prepare them for college and careers Relying on research as well as their own experience the authors show how to use intensive curriculum instruction assessment and leadership practices to meet the needs of 21st century learners A Comparative Study of Writing Abilities in Two Modes at the Grade 5, 8, and 12 Levels Ian Pringle, Aviva Freedman, Ontario. Ministry of Education, Ontario. Ministry of Colleges and Universities, 1985 The third of three studies involving a comparative analysis of transactional and narrative writing of selected samples of students in two Ontario districts this study addressed questions arising from the earlier studies and examined the writing skills of students in grades 5 8 and 12 Writing samples were examined for conformity to the norms of story structure and argumentation and the subject matter of the transactional writing was analyzed The level of affective development manifested in subsamples of both the stories and the arguments was rated All the papers in the sample were analyzed for syntactic complexity scores and for mechanical and conventional errors Comparisons of the first and second versions of the papers were made to assess skills in revising and editing Findings indicated the need of students to learn how to write an argument and to revise a paper Other implications were 1 that since the level of difficulty of one aspect of a writing task may decrease the lack of control in another teachers must take into account the nature of difficulties in the tasks they set students and make their assessments accordingly 2 that students at all levels should be given occasions to write narratives 3 that the model of persuasive discourse should be countered and 4 that writing strategies recommended by authorities need to be implemented EL
