The Higher Education Institutions Handbook, 2012      Child and Adolescent Development Anne

Stevenson, 2018-04-16 Global public health has improved vastly during the past 25 years and especially in the survival of infants and young children. However, many of these children, particularly in Africa, continue to live in poverty and in unhealthy, unsupportive environments and will not be able to meet their developmental potential. In other words, they will survive but not thrive. The UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) stress sustainable development, not just survival and disease reduction, and the Global Strategy for Women's, Children's, and Adolescents' Health proposes a 'Survive, end preventable deaths; Thrive, ensure health and wellbeing; and Transform, expand enabling environments' agenda. For children to thrive, they must make good developmental progress from birth until the end of adolescence. Addressing the social determinants of developmental problems, this volume offers a broad contextualised understanding of the factors that impact on children and adolescents in Africa. Unlike other works on the subject, it is Africa-wide in its scope, with case studies in Ethiopia, Kenya, Malawi, Nigeria, Rwanda, and South Africa. Covering mental health as well as physical and social development, it looks at policies and practice, culture and priorities for research, identifying challenges and proposing solutions.      World Review

Marco Rieckmann, Rosalba Thomas Muñoz, 2024-06-21 The global landscape of education has been reshaped by the COVID-19 pandemic, revealing the various challenges faced by countries worldwide. Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2021-12-22 In 2019 and 2020 alone, sub-Saharan Africa was hit by a once-in-a-century desert locust upsurge and the COVID-19 pandemic, while simultaneously facing conflict, droughts, and floods among other shocks and stressors. More than 60 percent of the population in sub-Saharan Africa depends on agriculture for food and income. Smallholder farmers, pastoralists, fishers, and foresters are the key change agents in restoring and improving livelihoods in Africa. By carrying out interventions that are both anticipatory and reactive, tackling the root causes of fragility, the challenges facing food security and nutrition can be addressed. In the effort to reach Zero Hunger by 2030, the transformation to more efficient, inclusive, resilient, and sustainable agri-food systems must be supported for better production, better nutrition, a better environment, and a better life, leaving no one behind. This publication highlights how FAO is working with partners and governments to strengthen the ability of communities in sub-Saharan Africa and food systems to withstand and rapidly recover from crises. The organization is contributing to safeguarding the livelihoods of the most vulnerable agro pastoral households in sub Saharan Africa through a range of activities including capacity building knowledge sharing food security and nutrition analyses and anticipatory actions The achievements and interventions presented in this publication are not a comprehensive list of all of FAO s resilience work in the region but rather provide an overview of what is being done to reach our common goal This is made possible through strong partnerships at all levels Resource partners valuable contributions in particular are critical to these successes By strengthening collaboration with local regional and global partners the persistent challenges related to food crisis contexts are tackled to build back better livelihoods and agri food systems to ensure a positive future for the African people

The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M.,Arasa, Josephine N.,2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya
