Qualitative Change In Human Geography:

Qualitative Change in Human Geography S. S. Duncan, 2013-10-22 Qualitative Change in Human Geography is a collection of studies that tackles concerns about human geography. The papers presented in the book deal with qualitative issues regarding human geography. The text contains eight different discussions that cover topics such as the direction of social practice research and the concept of people, society, and nature in social science. The book covers how economic and political interaction can explain the creation of spatial structure. The text discusses the explanatory theories and ideologies regarding the obsession of policymakers with the inner city. The book will be of great interest to sociologists, psychologists, and individuals concerned with human geography.

Making Human Geography Kevin R. Cox, 2013-12-17 This book cogently examines how human geography has developed from a field with limited self-awareness regarding method and theory to the vibrant study of society and space that it is today. Kevin R. Cox provides an interpretive critical perspective on Anglo-American geographic thought in the 20th and 21st centuries. He probes the impact of the spatial quantitative revolution and geography's engagement with other social sciences, particularly in social theory. Key concepts and theories in the field are explained and illustrated with instructive research examples. Cox explores both how new approaches to human geography get constructed and what each school of thought has contributed to understanding the world in which we live.

Emerging Frontiers of Urban Settlement Geography Sant Bahadur Singh, 1995 Urban Settlement Geography has been consistently growing as a systematic branch of geographical knowledge. Its scope and subject matter has been broadened, its analytical focus has been realigned, and its analytical tools have been refined. The book focusses upon multifaceted themes with regard to meaning and scope of Urban settlement Geography, spatial characteristics of urban settlements, classification, morphology, urban transportation, periodic markets, urban transportation development policy, and the urban environmental problems.

New Models In Geography V2 PhD Richard Peet, Professor Nigel Thrift, 2014-07-10 First published in 1989, the publication of Models in geography presaged a sea change in the practice of Anglo-American geography. For a new set of models, this book provides a summary of their nature, spirit, and purpose based upon a political economy perspective. The book is split into two volumes, each consisting of four parts. This makes the title suitable for students and geographers with an interest in models of the city, civil society, and social theory.

The First British-Soviet Geographical Seminar F. E. Ian Hamilton, 2015-12-04 The First British Soviet Geographical Seminar contains the scientific reports prepared by the participants of the First British Soviet Geographical Seminar held in Great Britain on May 9-20, 1978. The seminar focuses on tendencies in the development of contemporary trends and methods of scientific geographical studies in the Soviet Union and Great Britain. Organized into 16 chapters, this book begins with a discussion on the contemporary British geography and modern Soviet geography. Subsequent chapters explore the use of minicomputers in geography teaching, expanded model of curriculum development, and diffusion in education, postgraduate research, students in British universities.
