

A photograph of a man in a blue shirt and dark pants walking away from the camera on a paved path that curves through a lush green golf course. The path is bordered by tall, dense trees on the right, and a vibrant rainbow is visible in the sky, its colors reflecting on the path and the surrounding foliage. The overall scene is peaceful and scenic.

those definitions as terministic screens to decide if an activity can be named identified and practiced as reflection These definitions hold different rhetorical effects reflection for introspection reflection for learning reflection for mindfulness and reflection for awareness Reflection is used for these different rhetorical effects but because classrooms so often focus on the Westernized view and its emphasis on growth reflection has the underused and undertheorized potential rhetorical effect of helping students investigate their identities and positionalities acknowledge deep rooted ideologies and consider new perspectives so they can better work across difference Reflection in Motion will inspire teachers and writing program administrators to listen to how students define and practice reflection and why thus making room for more capacious definitions of reflection and student centered practices of what reflection can do and be Facilitating Watershed
