

ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOUR ASSIGNMENT GROUP - 5 PERSONALITY

Introduction

Personality, a characteristic way of thinking, feeling, and behaving. Personality embraces moods, attitudes, and opinions and is most clearly expressed in interactions with other people. It includes behavioural characteristics, both inherent and acquired, that distinguish one person from another and that can be observed in people's relations to the environment and to the social group.

The term personality has been defined in many ways, but as a psychological concept two main meanings have evolved. The first pertains to the consistent differences that exist between people: The second meaning emphasizes those qualities that make all people alike and that distinguishes a man from other species; it directs the personality theorist to search for those regularities among all people that define the nature of man as well as the factors that influence the course of lives.

The study of personality can be said to have its origins in the fundamental idea that people are distinguished by their characteristic individual patterns of behaviour—the distinctive ways in which they walk, talk, or express their urges. Personologists are the one who systematically study personality. They have examined how people differ in the ways they express themselves and attempt to determine the causes of these differences.
